FOUR OFFICIALS BLOCK SPECIAL COUNCIL CONFAB

Men Who Voted Light Rate Contract Fail to Heed Call to Meeting

REFERENDUM IS QUESTION

Three Members See Passage Of Vote Ordinance

A special meeting of council Wednesday night was a failure. Three councilmen who called the meeting and John C. Goeller, president, all of whom are opposed to the 10-year light rate contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., were present. Four council members who favored the lengthy contract were absent. Ben Gordon, Harry Steinhilber and Julius Helweggen issued the call for the special meeting to consider an ordinance to place the light rate controversy before voters on Nov. 2. Those who failed to report for the meeting were E. S. Neuding, C. O. Leist, T. M. Barnes and Frank Marion.

Quorum Missing
The meeting was called for 8 p. m. Members present waited until 8:25 o'clock before starting the session. The call was read by Clerk Fred R. Nicholas. He called the roll. Since a quorum was not present the group adjourned. The proceedings lasted three minutes.

Immediately after the meeting was adjourned the three members issued a call for a special meeting for Thursday at 8 p. m. In the event the other four members fail to report Thursday night, Mr. Gordon indicated another called meeting would be arranged for Friday night.

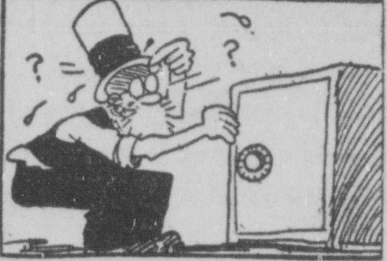

Mr. Neuding was reported attending a conference of the United Brethren church, in Newark. Why the other members failed to attend the meeting was not learned.

Mr. Gordon said he believed the fact that Mr. Neuding was out of the city had some bearing on the failure of the other members to report. "That would make a vote three to three," Mr. Gordon said, "and Mr. Goeller would vote in that case." The president of council has been opposed to the lengthy contract, but has had no opportunity to vote in any of the council proceedings.

Regular Session Wednesday
In the event the four members failed to report either Thursday or Friday night, Mr. Gordon indicated no meeting would be called Saturday night. The next regular meeting of council will be held Wednesday.

Although the regular Wednesday night meeting is 60 days before the Nov. 2 election, the group opposing the rate ordinance believe it is figuring dates "too close." (Continued on Page Four)

New Plane Propellor Adds Speed

Curtiss - Wright Completes Blade Capable of 300 Miles an Hour

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(UP)—A new airplane propellor, capable of assuring speeds as high as 300 miles an hour and providing the most efficient pitch for all flight conditions, was announced today by officials of the Curtiss-Wright Airplane corporation.

The propellor, of the three-bladed type with hollow steel blades, is revolutionary in design, changing mechanically the blade pitch formerly controlled by hydraulics. It has an individual electric motor which will provide an increased pitch with a range up to 90 degrees.

Burdette S. Wright, vice-president and general manager of the airplane corporation, revealed the war department has contracted for 240 of the propellers to be installed on pursuit planes. Cost of these propellers was estimated at $512,262.25.

The new blade, Wright said, is similar to those now in service on other high performance army pursuit planes but differs in that it provides automatic but mechanical control of the blade angles.

F. D. R. STUDYING SPECIAL SESSION, OTHER PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—President Roosevelt goes tonight to the quiet of his Hyde Park, N. Y., country home to consider calling congress into special session this fall for a showdown on his legislative program.

The president leaves the crush of White House routine at mid-evening by special train. Two other allied questions will confront him as he sits in his pine-paneled study overlooking the Hudson river. They are:

1. Should he stump the country in person or by radio to crystallize the popular support he believes is behind his defeated court program and his pending surplus crop control and labor proposals?
2. Should the newly-signed lower court procedure bill be used as a "stepping stone" to another attempt to achieve aims of his original supreme court enlargement plan?

Although there is no official confirmation, observers are inclined to believe that Mr. Roosevelt now leans toward an extra session in November or December.

300,000 READY TO QUIT TRAINS IN WAGE FIGHT

Railway Labor Officials Call Meeting to Talk Date for Strike

PAY BOOST REFUSED

'Big Five' Brotherhoods to Direct Action

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Representatives of railway labor met today to decide on a strike call to enforce demands for a wage increase refused by the carriers yesterday.

The "big five" brotherhoods said the carriers' flat refusal was "not acceptable" and that a date for calling out 300,000 operating trainmen would be set immediately.

Carriers and labor leaders agreed two courses of possible action to avert a strike remained open. The Federal Mediation Board could intervene of its own accord and demand a review of the situation. An emergency could be declared by presidential proclamation and an emergency board appointed.

The emergency board would have 30 days in which to make its report and another 30 days would have to elapse before a strike call could become effective.

Compromise Reached
Intervention by the Federal Mediation Board resulted in compromise of 850,000 non-operating railroad employees' demands for a 20 cents an hour wage increase last month. The compromise granted them five cents an hour (Continued on Page Four)

DRASTIC ECONOMY DRIVE PLANNED TO CUT PUBLIC DEBT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Administration congressional leaders today planned a drastic economy drive to balance the budget for the next fiscal year and to make progress toward reduction of a record breaking $37,000,000,000 public debt.

Acting Chairman Clarence Cannon, D. Mo., of the house appropriations committee, detailed plans for the campaign in a statement to reporters. He asserted that reductions were in order "all along the line," some as much as 30 percent, with curtailment or elimination of some federal activities.

Cannon, one of a group of house leaders who remained after adjournment to discuss the future legislative program with President Roosevelt, has assured active direction of the appropriations committee because of the recent illness of Chairman Edward T. Taylor, D. Colo.

FAIRFIELD RURAL LIGHT PROGRAM SHOWS PROGRESS

LANCASTER, Aug. 26.—Approximately 425 rural homes in Fairfield county will receive electricity as a Christmas gift, dispatches from Washington reveal.

In announcing acceptance of a bid of $90,772 of the Anders Asphalt Paving Co., Hamilton, for the construction of power lines, R. E. A. officials said that under the contract 120 miles of lines will be ready for operation next Dec. 24. The Fairfield county project is a branch of a tri-county program including Pickaway and Perry counties. Fairfield county's project is being financed through a loan of $105,000 from the R.E.A., obtained last May. Additional funds for projects in the other two counties have been assured.

NORMAL GIRL BORN TO MIDGET COUPLE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Birth of a normal five-pound baby girl to a midget mother weighing only 67 pounds was reported today.

The infant, delivered through Caesarian section, and the mother, Mrs. Frank Delfino, were reported "doing well" at Abbott hospital, where the birth reportedly occurred Tuesday.

The hospital refused to discuss the case or indicate who had been the attending physician.

The father of the child also is a midget who wooed and won Mrs. Delfino, the former Sadie Williams, while both were appearing in the Chicago "Century of Progress" world's fair in 1933. Delfino was a violin player in a midget orchestra. Mrs. Delfino was appearing at a nearby concession.

Since their marriage they have been tramping together. Mrs. Delfino appearing in a dancing act until the time of her confinement.

One of their most recent engagements was at the Great Lakes Exposition, in Cleveland. The father stood on a chair to peer into the nursery for his first look at the infant today and announced she would be named Ruth Frances Marie Delfino. "Ain't she a honey," he exclaimed. He was not permitted to see his wife, who is three feet, 10 inches tall.

The baby measured 18 inches in height—more than one third the height of her parents. She has black hair. Nurses said she has full-size lung power. As soon as the mother is strong enough to see visitors she will receive her closest friend, Mrs. Fremont Leslie, a three-foot 10 inch midget married to a fully grown man, six feet tall.

Mrs. Leslie gave birth to a normal daughter in 1930. She and Mrs. Delfino formerly tramped together.

The Leslie child, Jane, was seven years old June 16, and is taller than her mother.

Delfino said birth of the baby will keep him and his little wife in Minneapolis for about a year. "We wouldn't think of going out without the baby, you know," he said.

The two Delfinos recently have been touring the country in a miniature car in an advertising job. "Ruth is going to go tramping with us when she's old enough to walk," he said.

FRANCO'S FORCE WINS SANTANDER WITHOUT BATTLE

SANTANDER, Spain, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Thousands of Nationalist troops poured into this ancient seaport on the Biscay coast today. The insurgent "fifth army" within the city had overthrown the local government and raised the red and gold flag of the monarchy.

Thousands of Loyalists were taken prisoner by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's legions who captured the city without firing a shot after they had battered their way for months down the Cantabrian coast.

Nationalist civilians within Santander—one of the units of the so-called "fifth army" operating behind government lines—became masters of the city after bloody street fighting. It was revealed that they had been planning their coup for months. The revolt was staged by civil guards and Rightists who had remained in hiding all during the Nationalist offensive in the north, fearing for their lives.

After several hours of fighting, Santander passed into the hands of the Franco sympathizers. Franco was notified immediately, and it was decided that the main body of the Nationalist army would wait until today to formally occupy the town.

MISSOURI YOUTH ROBS BANK, THEN GIVES BACK $350

CALHOUN, Mo., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Charles Hill, a young native of this town, believes he was crazy yesterday when he walked in and robbed the bank where he kept an account and knew all the clerks by their first names.

He came back and surrendered late last night, eight hours after he had hustled out of town with $350 loot. He brought the money back with him and gave it to Sheriff Dalton Davis who locked him up.

Hill is 28, the son of Mrs. Celia Hill, a respected widow of the town. Her husband, the young robber's father, ran the general store here.

EDEN READY TO ACT

Government Hears Union Jack on Auto

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—A Japanese airplane machine gun bullet that hit the British ambassador to China today confronted the government with a situation admittedly of the most urgent gravity.

The incident was the most serious as regards British-Japanese relations of the entire Chinese-Japanese unofficial war, despite previous airplane bombings and destruction of tens of millions of dollars of British property.

Reports that the motor car in which the ambassador was driving was flying the British Union Jack, and that the attack on it was a deliberate one on a road in a country with which Japan, despite its war, still maintains "friendly" relations, added to the anxiety of officials.

Full Report Demanded
Urgent orders, it was understood, were sent to Shanghai for the fullest reports of the incident, for submission to Prime Minister (Continued on Page Four)

DOUGAN OUSTED AS MEMBER OF PARDONS BOARD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Leland S. Dougan, Columbus, chairman of the state parole board, was removed from office today by welfare director Margaret Allman for "conduct unbecoming an officer."

The removal, recommended 10 days ago by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting an investigation of the board, was announced from Governor Davey's office and has the approval of the governor.

Dougan, a Republican, was originally appointed on Aug. 16, 1931, by Governor George White when the present four-man parole board was created. He was reappointed by Gov. White in 1933 for a four year term, which expired Aug. 16.

WALLACE HEADS DRIVE FOR NEW FARM STATUTES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today led a "farm movement" for a special session of congress this fall to enact ever-normal granary legislation.

Speed in the formulating of a new farm program is necessary, Wallace said, in order to place it into effect for next season. He said the department is "devoutly praying" for "definite action" before January.

Wallace said he considered the joint congressional resolution authorizing a cotton loan and pledging early enactment of a new farm legislation "a definite contract" between congress and President Roosevelt.

"New farm legislation could be ready for enactment by late October," Wallace said. "The speed of passage would depend entirely on the keenness of the desire."

The car landed on its top. They died on the way to a hospital.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Japanese naval authorities at Shanghai have apologized formally for the shooting of the British ambassador to China by a Japanese warplane, the Exchange Telegraph reported tonight from Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China, was shot through the body today by a Japanese airplane machine gun bullet as he was racing toward Shanghai from Nanking for an emergency conference with British officials.

The bullet touched the spine but did not sever the spinal cord.

Surgeons, at first hopeful that his condition was not critical, became alarmed at his loss of blood and resorted to a blood transfusion.

Two United States marines volunteered as blood donors and one was accepted.

Marine officers who went to offer their condolences to the ambassador were told that his liver had been penetrated by the machine gun blast.

As the ambassador fought for his life at the country hospital, news was received that 20 Japanese airplanes, in a terrific bombardment, destroyed the American owned Poplar dairy in the suburbs, flying the American flag, and that a Japanese warship had sunk in flames, with its crew of 91, the Chinese survey vessel Chaojin.

A Japanese embassy spokesman expressed the ominous "hope" that foreign countries would bow to Japan's blockade of the China coast and not try to send arms to China.

Attack Not Discussed
He refused to discuss the attack on the British ambassador, which absorbed attention. The incident dwarfed for the moment the savage battle being fought on a 20-mile front north of the city.

But then came the threat of urgent danger from that quarter. The Chinese, inspired by deadliest hatred, had all but immobilized a smashing Japanese infantry attack. Then late today, the Japanese broke through.

Danger of a Chinese rout became imminent and international settlement authorities rushed orders to the men at the barricades bordering Chinese areas to shoot to kill any armed Chinese soldiers who tried to rush them. Reinforcements were held ready.

What of British?
Everyone wondered what Britain would do about the shooting of her ambassador. British-Japanese relations were brought to the most delicate, dangerous point in many years.

The ambassador had decided to come here for a most urgent conference with the commanders in chief of the British fleet and garrisons (Continued on Page Four)

WHEAT UP THREE CENTS ON CIRCLEVILLE MARKET
Wheat was three cents higher and corn was up one cent on Circleville's markets Thursday. The wheat price was 95 cents a bushel. Yellow corn was 97 cents and the white variety was $1.01.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Stocks slumped to new lows since July 13 in the industrial average today. The railroad average was near the year's low.

The Sino-Japanese Scene

Developments today in the Chinese-Japanese war:
SHANGHAI—Japanese airplane machine guns British ambassador through body; United States marine gives blood for transfusion; Japanese airplanes destroy American dairy, flying U. S. flag; Japan sinks Chinese patrol vessel in Whangpoo; smashing Japanese victories north of city result in orders to U. S. marines and other foreign defense forces to shoot to kill any Chinese who try to rush barriers of foreign area.
LONDON—Government leaders, gravely anxious over Japanese attack on British ambassador to China, await full reports before acting; Chamberlain may call full cabinet meeting.

TOUR OF MAJOR YIELDS OF CORN SET ON SEPT. 17

Two Ross County Farms to Be Visited as Part of State-Wide Work

O.S.U. EXPERTS ASSIST

Phillip Gay, George C. Foster Properties Listed

Hundred-bushel corn yields are considered good in Ohio but R. D. Lewis, specialist in agronomy at Ohio State university, states that corn which is expected to produce at the rate of 300 bushels to the acre will be one of the exhibits during the series of meetings at Holgate, Sept. 7; Wooster, Sept. 9; and Chillicothe, Sept. 17.

Mr. Lewis says the high yielding corn sounds spectacular but the real values to Ohio farmers are in other exhibits. The value of hybrid corn is one of the things which will be shown by crops growing on farms at each of four meeting places. Sugar beet culture, alfalfa and clover experiments, sweet clover as a green manure crop, fertilizer placement to get maximum returns, soybean comparison tests, and pasture improvement work are all included on the three-day program.

Many Crops Tested
The Holgate meeting, Sept. 7, will be at the Northwest experiment farm from 1 to 4:30 p. m. Hybrid corn, sugar beets, sweet clover, alfalfa, June clover and soybeans are all being tested and the results will be the basis for discussion at this meeting.
The program at Wooster will be held on the experiment station farm from 9:30 until noon. The hybrid corn which will make a 300-bushel crop is growing in tanks at that point. This corn is being grown in a nutrient solution without the use of any soil. Other more practical work with hybrid corn and tests with soybeans and pasture mixtures will round out the program.

At Chillicothe, both morning and afternoon meetings will be held. The morning meeting will be on the farm of Phillip C. Gay. This farm is reached by turning from Route 23 at Hopetown and going two miles east on a main gravel road. Both seed and commercial production of hybrid corn are being carried out on this farm.

The afternoon meeting is on the George C. Foster place, seven miles southeast of Chillicothe on Route 35. The farm is opposite a grain elevator. The emphasis at this meeting will also be on hybrid corn. Breeding work to develop a white hybrid adapted to bottom lands is being conducted, and a comparison test with yellow hybrids and other varieties on second bottom land is being made.

Members of the Northwestern experiment farm, the Ohio experiment station, and the university staffs will be at the meetings to explain the experimental work.

To keep the dust off suede there is a new brush being shown. It has rubber bristles.

Pasturing In Woodlots Dangerous, Expert Says

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26—One reason that Ohio farmers are reporting losses of livestock caused by poisonous plants is that livestock owners persist in pasturing woodlot, according to F. D. Dean, forestry specialist, of Ohio State university.

Mr. Dean believes that the commonest poisonous plants in Ohio, white snakeroot, water hemlock, and wild cherry, are most plentiful in wooded areas and that pasturing woods aids these poisonous species while destroying the valuable seedlings which would become trees. The stock prefers to eat tree seedlings and grass rather than poisonous plants so the latter are only eaten after the former are destroyed.

This permits the poisonous plants to multiply until they may become scattered over a large portion of the wooded area. When the preferred forage plants are gone, the animals are forced to eat the poisonous ones and these usually are plentiful enough to kill one or more head of livestock before the owner becomes aware of the situation.

Mr. Dean thinks the solution for this trouble is to keep stock out of the woods and to improve cleared pastures by liming and fertilization so it will carry the livestock during the pasture season. Young trees and shrubs in an ungrazed woods will shade the ground enough to make unfavorable conditions for the growth of poisonous plants.

Cattle running in woods also may be poisoned by eating buckeye sprouts or they may be injured by the thorns of the prickly ash. The prickly ash is quite plentiful in western Ohio, and its thorns not only tear the skin of animals but also produce an irritation in addition to the laceration. Wild cherry is not poisonous except when the leaves are wilted. Branches blown from trees during storms or those cut from the tree and left lying on the ground are dangerous. Livestock appear to like this wilted foliage but it contains a deadly poison.

White snakeroot is an upright growing plant which has clusters of white flowers in the leaf axils. It is in bloom in August and September and is usually found in partially shaded areas on fairly dry soil. Water hemlock prefers damp spots and is a coarse, hollow stemmed plant that is not ordinarily eaten by livestock unless the animals are very hungry.

FOUR OFFICIALS BLOCK SPECIAL COUNCIL CONFAB

Men Who Voted Light Rate
Contract Fail to Heed
Call to Meeting

the event an attempt is made to delay a vote next Wednesday the group indicated court action might be necessary.

They believed that by calling a series of special meetings the ordinance could be given the required number of readings before the deadline.

Opponents of the rate ordinance contend that under laws concerning the type of referendum being used city council must pass an ordinance 60 days before the election placing the issue before voters.

Mayor W. J. Graham attended the special session with the referendum petitions, bearing 670 names, carefully wrapped and ready to be presented to council. When no meeting could be held he returned them to his safe.

T. A. Renick, attorney for the opponents, prepared the ordinance to submit the issue to voters. Carl C. Leist, solicitor, is convalescing in Berger hospital after a recent operation. C. A. Leist, his father, attended the special meeting.

Question Quoted

The question to be placed before voters is "Shall ordinance No. 943 of the City of Circleville, O., fixing the rates which the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., its successors and assigns, may charge for electrical current for residence and commercial lights in the City of Circleville, in Pickaway county, O., be approved?"

Counter petitions are being circulated by the light company among those who signed the 10 referendum petitions, seeking the removal of signatures. These counter petitions, it is understood, will be filed with Mayor Graham.

Attorneys say it is the duty of council to decide if the referendum petitions are legal. They contend that if councilmen decide the petitions are legal it is mandatory that an ordinance be passed to place it before voters.

Mr. Renick says the constitutional law makes no provisions for names to be withdrawn from the petitions.

SESLER RETURNS PINBALL DEVICE AFTER SEIZURE

LANCASTER, Aug. 26 — Police Chief Gail Sesler announced that a pinball machine seized Monday will be returned to its owner without fighting a replevin action filed with Mayor Charles Moyer.

The police chief said there was no evidence of awards having been paid and obviously it was "planted" for a test case. It contained only two five-cent pieces in the cash box.

Chief Sesler said the ban on pinball gambling still remained and that if any machine is exhibited that pays off tickets, merchandise, cash or a prize of any sort it would be confiscated and the owner arrested.

The replevin action was filed in Mayor Moyer's court, alleging the machine had been unlawfully seized and asked that it be restored.

125 IN W. P. A.

The weekly employment report for W.P.A. in Pickaway county shows 113 men and 39 women employed on the six projects now in operation. Ten men left W.P.A. during the last week, most of them accepting private employment.

LAND BOY SEEN

The sheriff's department was informed Wednesday night by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Land that their son, Joe, 17, missing since Sunday night, had been seen near Ironton. The youth left after a car he was driving was involved in an accident near Yellowbud. His parents reside just west of the city.

BRITISH ENVOY SHOT DOWN BY JAPANESE GUN

rison and consular and other officials.

His car flew a British Union Jack from its radiator as plain notification of its British status.

The trip was to be a fast one. Col. W. A. Lovat-Fraser, chief British military attaché in China, an expert driver, took the wheel and the Chinese chauffeur was given a seat in the rear. Also in the car were the ambassador's private secretary, W. C. G. Graham and E. Hall Patch, British adviser to the Chinese finance ministry, who is also a British treasury official.

The big car had roared through Wush. A Japanese airplane swept along, high over the road. Its pilot dived the plane toward the British car and its whipping flag. There was a burst of machine gun bullets and the ambassador slumped in his seat.

Bomb Burst in Road

Just ahead of the car in the middle of the road, a great bomb burst.

Lieut. Col. Lovat-Fraser, affected himself by concussion as were Hall Patch and Graham and the chauffeur, brought the car to a safe halt. Pausing only to recover from the shock, he took the wheel again and raced for the country hospital here.

Word was telephoned ahead that the ambassador had been wounded and surgeons and nurses were waiting. The operating room was made ready and the ambassador was taken to it at once.

It was a run of 50 miles, and when he arrived he had lost much blood.

It was 2:30 p. m. when the ambassador was wounded. At 6:30 surgeons at the country hospital said that he was weak from loss of blood but that they retained hope of saving him.

They said that, though the spine was touched by a bullet, the spinal cord had not been severed.

As soon as the news was received, the British navy radio flashed out a general alarm message seeking Lady Knatchbull-Hugessen. She and her two daughters, at Peitaiho, 140 miles northwest of Shanghai, near Nanking.

Navy Crew Blamed

A Chinese army spokesman asserted that the bombing plane which attacked the ambassador had been identified as a seaplane, so that presumably it had a navy crew.

Excitement spread quickly. It was realized what a serious situation had been precipitated between Japan and Britain—the highest British official in China attacked by a Japanese plane which did not even enjoy belligerent rights because there has been no declaration of war by Japan on China. The Japanese ambassador remains here in nominally "friendly" relations with the Chinese government.

There had been no such incident in China since the Boxer rebellion of 1900, then the gravity of that situation reached the world when German ambassador Von Kettler was shot and killed while on a peaceful mission in the legation quarter of Peking—then Peking, the national capital.

Today, the ambassador had awaiting him, for an emergency conference, Admiral Sir Charles Little, commander in chief of the British fleet; Brig. Gen. A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, garrison commander in chief; consular authorities and leading Britons of the community here.

They took charge at once of the gravest incident that has occurred in Shanghai yet as regards international relations.

Then, the news came that the Japanese, after two days of savage fighting, had won smashing successes all along the 20 mile front north of the city.

Barrier Guarded

International settlement authorities feared that soon demoralized Chinese soldiers, abandoning the main army, would be retreating on the settlement, rushing, the long, sand bag and barbed wire barricades thrown up on the borders of the settlement and the French concession.

Urgent orders were issued that the foreign area must be kept inviolate and that the border guards must shoot to kill any armed Chinese who sought to enter it.

Any Chinese admitted, it was said, must be disarmed and taken to a concentration camp.

Armored cars and trucks plastered with armor plate, all equipped with machine guns, were sent out to patrol settlement borders.

A Japanese army spokesman said that the Japanese were driving the Chinese into prepared death traps.

"We will make every effort to prevent their falling back on the settlement," he continued. "But this is a major engagement and it will continue until the Chinese who are defying Japan are annihilated."

Knatchbull-Hugessen was appointed ambassador to China last year. He has served nearly 30 years in the British foreign service.

He was born in 1886 and received his education at Eton, Balliol college and Oxford university. He entered the foreign service in 1908.

Knatchbull-Hugessen was attached to the British delegation at the World War peace conference in 1919 and later served as first secretary in the diplomatic service. From 1926 to 1930 he served as counselor to the British embassy in Brussels and then was appointed British minister to the Baltic states. From 1934 to 1936 he served as British minister to Persia.

increase, totalling approximately $98,000,000 annually.

The "big five" brotherhoods—trainmen, firemen, enginemen, conductors, and switchmen—demanded a 20 percent increase which carriers estimated would cost them $116,000,000 a year.

More than 90 percent of the operating trainmen voting in a special strike referendum granted the negotiating committee meeting today full authority to call a walkout if their demands were not settled amicably.

The demands were rejected flatly by the carriers' late yesterday. H. A. Enochs, chairman of the Carriers' Wage Negotiating committee and chief personnel director of the Pennsylvania railroad, said the railroads were "unable to absorb any further increases in their expenses."

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, said there was no alternative but to call a strike. "We were empowered to carry our negotiations through to a successful conclusion," he said. "That meant by strike if necessary."

"They turned us down flatly and now there is nothing more to be said. When a man says he is through, he is through."

Enochs held out a hope that the negotiations could be rushed later. The carriers took the stand that wage rates now are higher than those granted by the railroad labor board in 1920; earnings of employees compare favorably with outside industry; hazards of service have been removed; purchasing power of the dollar is greater than in 1929; Competition is reducing railroad revenue; increased speed of trains has automatically increased earnings of all road trainmen and engineers and a large proportion of the railroads operated at a deficit in 1936 and many are in the hands of receivers or trustees.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26 — (UP)

The 39th annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans ended today with the installation of Alfred J. Kennedy, of New York, new commander-in-chief, and other officers elected yesterday.

Mrs. Mary McGuale, New York, was elected president of the women's national auxiliary. Others chosen are Mrs. Maude C. Whitlock, Washington-Alaska department, senior vice president; Lou Ella Allen, Texas, junior vice president; Betty Bassett, California, chaplain, and Anna Nagle, Massachusetts, judge advocate.

The veterans passed in review late yesterday in the annual parade, which took an hour and a half to pass the reviewing stand.

OHIO GIRL KILLED IN BARNYARD AS BIG HORSE SHIES

WOOSTER, Aug. 26—(UP)—A gay gallop about the farmyard on a draft horse brought death to an eight-year-old Shreve girl here last night and sent her brother to the hospital seriously injured.

Phyllis Shane was pitched from her mount as the horse shied. She crushed her head against a stone. James Shane, 10, seated on the horse with his sister, had lashed his feet with binder twine.

Dragged by the frightened animal, he was seriously injured before his parents heard his cries. Rushing from the barn, Mr. and Mrs. James Shane rescued the lad.

PRIME MINISTER AWAITS REPORT FROM WAR ZONE

Chamberlain May Summon
Cabinet Into Special
Session

Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

It was intimated that the government would take no action until it had received the reports.

Chamberlain had just returned to Scotland, after coming here for an urgent conference with Lord Halifax, who acted as foreign minister during Eden's vacation.

It was announced only last night that these key leaders had determined to protect British lives and property in Shanghai, and would persist in efforts to secure the exclusion of Shanghai from the area of hostilities.

An official communique, issued last night, before word of the Shanghai occurrence said:

"The British government share the anxieties of the United States government regarding damage to the Far East generally from the present fighting, and welcome the appeal made by the American secretary of state to both sides to cease fighting."

"The ministers observe with satisfaction the close collaboration maintained with other governments, especially the American and French. They regard it as most important that such collaboration should continue."

There was some belief that Chamberlain would call a full cabinet meeting and return to the city. Britain regards attacks on ordinary British civilians as grave enough, but an attack on an ambassador, a direct envoy of the king, is a matter of greatest moment.

Foreign Secretary Eden waited at the foreign office. He had received no official reports early this afternoon. United Press dispatches from Shanghai were telephoned to him.

Some hope was expressed that Japan, impressed by the gravity of the act of its airplane crew, might at last consent—as has China—to mutual troop withdrawal from the Shanghai area.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, is said to be proud of the fact that one of his ancestors was a governor of Maryland when it was a British crown colony.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WOLLASTON, MASS.

AUGUST 23, 1937

Editor the Herald!

As our goods left Circleville on Wednesday and we can no longer call Circleville our home, both Mrs. Toensmeier and I want to take occasion to express our gratitude and appreciation for every kindness and courtesy shown us. We rejoice in the fine memories we carry with us as a legacy. Any one could cherish with pride the memory of the wonderful community dinner. Our new home will be at Kent School for Boys—with a fine staff of teachers and 300 boys in attendance. Their rowing crew was one of two prep crews to be sent to England to compete with the crews of its famous prep schools.

It will mean a great change for us and a readjustment of our lives. We hope to be very happy and shall be happier still when Circleville friends drop in on us. With many thanks for your courtesies,

Cordially yours,
Emil S. Toensmeier.

HOW NEW COURT NOMINEE CLIMBED; "HARD WORK," SAYS OLD HOME TOWN

Hugo Black Was Persistently
"On the Job"

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. Aug. 26—Senator Hugo Lafayette Black, named to the U. S. supreme court by President Roosevelt, has climbed to the highest peak in the legal profession because of his early persistence in "hanging around" courts as a boy in his home town of Ashland, Ala., natives say. Citizens there say they knew he would climb because of intense diligence, and his determination to learn.

Finally, Hugo borrowed money from a country storekeeper in Ashland to finance his way through the University of Alabama law school.

He was graduated with an LL. B. degree in 1906, when 20 years old—having been born on Feb. 27, 1886.

"Lucky Fire"

Young Black returned to Ashland to practice. Then a lucky fire occurred. It destroyed Black's office in Ashland. Friends persuaded the young attorney then to move to Birmingham, metropolis of Alabama.

It was a fortunate move. Black worked day and night. Friends marveled at his stamina. They began to fear for his health. But Black continued to work.

Then Black was appointed recorder or police judge, of Birmingham, in 1910—three years after he had begun practicing in the city. He cleared a clogged docket, and resigned after 18 months. He next was solicitor—prosecuting attorney—of Jefferson county (Birmingham), from 1915 to 1917. He resigned in order to enter the second officers' training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Aug. 3, 1917. He was commissioned a captain, and served in the Eighty-first Artillery corps; but just as he was about to go overseas, Black was named as adjutant of the Nineteenth Artillery brigade.

Resumes Practice

The war ended, Black resumed general practice in Birmingham, in 1919.

In February, 1921, Black married Miss Josephine Foster of Birmingham. There are three children, Hugo Lafayette, Sterling

Foster and Martha Josephine—the latter being merely a year and a half old.

Then in a spectacular race, Black won the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, in 1926, which was tantamount to election. He was re-elected for a second term, in 1932, and faced a primary election for renomination in 1938.

During recent weeks, Senator Black's fight for his wages and hours bill has cost him many supporters among businessmen in Alabama. But the senator has remarked that eventually all groups would see the wisdom of the bill. Labor, of course, has been solidly behind the senator.

Attacked in Own State

Papers that had supported the senator began attacking him editorially—and hundreds of telegrams of protest were sent to him. But the senator never has wavered.

In view of the opposition, a number of men were rumored as preparing to contest with the senators for the nomination next year.

Then, when the senator was named to the supreme court, it was rumored that Gov. Bibb Graves might appoint former Senator Tom Heflin to fill out the expired term. It not, Heflin may offer himself for the nomination anyway. He has been "feeling out the situation" in the last several weeks.

Governor Graves has been a consistent supporter of Senator Black. He remarks: "Senator Black is one of the greatest men in America today. He is a man who is on the human side of the nation. I congratulate the nation on the appointment and Alabama is happy to have supplied him."

Plays Little Golf

While in Birmingham, Senator Black played little golf, and fished and swam even less. When hard at work he smokes one cigar after another.

Returning after each Washington session, Senator Black has rented a house in Birmingham. He is not a man of wealth.

He is a Baptist, a Mason, a Shriner, an Old Fellow, a Moose, a Knight of Pythias. He is a devout follower of each. He was grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias in Alabama in 1922.

Both members of Senator Black's old law firm of Black and Davis now will be on the federal bench. For two years ago David J. Davis was named by President Roosevelt as federal district judge to succeed the late Judge William I. Grubbs, who rendered numerous anti-New Deal decisions.

GREATER AREA IN GRASS LAND URGED FOR U.S.

Federal Agronomists Visit World to Study Native Plants

SEEDS BROUGHT BACK

Eight Specific Objectives Listed by Cardon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(UP)—The Department of Agriculture is laying the groundwork for return of millions of acres of farm lands to grasses through study of this neglected plant at home and abroad.

Agronomists have been sent to all parts of the world to study grasses in their native land. Seeds and plants of hundreds of different varieties have been brought back and are being tested in experimental farms.

"The importance of grass to the agriculture of the United States is appreciated more now than at any time in the history of the country," P. V. Cardon, pasture specialist of the department, told the Fourth International Grassland Congress at Aberystwyth, Wales, in July.

Broader Program Followed

Although the interest in pasture plants is in breeding new varieties, there is no lessening of interest in the problems of management and soil fertility, Cardon said. Rather, he said, scientists are engaged in perfecting a grass breeding technique that will integrate and clarify broad objectives in all interdependent fields of activity.

As guide-posts in the breeding program, Cardon listed eight specific objectives: More dependable supplies of viable seed, production of grasses which will help to extend the summer grazing period, grasses resistant to disease, determination of competitive values of important species, study of quick recovery values, tolerance to extreme soil conditions, palatability, and nutritive values.

Grass breeding also is expected to fill another gap—the summer period when most common grasses stop growing. Agronomists hope to find or develop pasture plants which, because they mature later or because of some other quality, are able to thrive when other grasses are dormant.

Solution Not Definite

"Varying soil and climatic conditions preclude any single solution to pasture problems in the United States," Cardon said. "Preliminary studies show that grass growing well in two or more regions may be both palatable and nutritive in one but in another may be lacking in both."

"We are laboring under no illusions as to the magnitude of the task and the difficulties that it involves. We know that grass breeding must be fortified with other organized efforts. In the United States this means that agricultural extension agents, crop improvement associations, seed certification officials, growers co-operatives and the seed trade generally must work with the grass breeder just as he worked with the cereal available they will pass through well defined and carefully protected channels into utilization over as wide an area as possible. Only by such co-ordination of effort can adequate supplies of good seed be maintained," Cardon said.

"Strip-Tease" Dancer is "Mystified" Over Clamps Put on Burlesque

Rose La Rose, Who Landed a Place on Pacific Coast, Believes Many Night Clubs Are on a Lower Plane

Rose La Rose, former Minsky beauty now appearing on the west coast following New York's ban on burlesque, is shown at home, in her act and in street attire. She contends burlesque is on a higher moral plane than the average night club entertainment.

By ROBERT J. RHODES LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 26—The moral character of the average burlesque theater is on a higher plane than that of the average night club.

And the average sensuous dancer, or strip-tease, would rather work behind footlights than under a night club spotlight.

At least, that is the opinion expressed by Rose La Rose, fiery, raven-haired strip-tease, dancer whose beauty brought her a lead role in one of Minsky's New York theaters.

But when the clamp of New York's vice crusaders and the law was tightened around the burlesque theaters there, La Rose packed up, hopped a train, sped west—and landed in a top spot in a show here.

"Why," asked the tempestuous dancer, her eyes flashing wildly, "after all, just what is wrong with burlesque?" Then, without waiting for a reply, she continued with, "I've worked on the stage and in night clubs. I'll take the stage every time."

Less Annoyance "I don't care what they say," she added. "The moral tone of burlesque is higher. At least, on the stage I can present my dances without the annoyance of having hands of drinking patrons stretch towards me. I am sure there are dancers sharing my opinion."

La Rose, reclining leisurely in her dressing room between shows, picked up a newspaper, turned to one of the stories still dealing with the recent ban and continued: "When they slapped the ban on those theaters in New York, out of work went many capable chorus girls, ambitious musicians, industrious stagehands."

"Everyone works hard in burlesque. If anyone really wants to stage an indecent act, she can do so elsewhere—and won't have to put in the long, hard hours that burlesque demands. There are other fields in which one may turn their—er, ah, talents."

"Burlesque, I suppose, does have its rough spots. These easily can be rounded off. Yet, the indictments returned against my profession are irritating to me. I guess there always will be those who never understand art and artists, however."

La Rose was one of several New York showgirls charged with presenting an indecent performance.

She Was Dressed

"Why," she said, "when the show was closed, I was wearing a gown. I can't see where the law figured my act indecent."

"But if New York is too good for burlesque girls, then I guess all will do as I have done—go elsewhere. I regret that I was forced from my native city. I always have liked it, so much so that not long ago I turned down a lucrative offer to appear in the Casino de Paris in Paris. That was just before the theaters were closed."

Switching from her vehement defense of burlesque, La Rose, through whose veins courses a mixture of Austrian and Italian bloods, to a discussion of her off-stage life, said:

"The off-stage life of a burlesque queen is not unusual. But there is one phase of it that is annoying. "Once off the stage everything is all right, but it is passing the usual line of 'stage door Johnnies' that never ceases to be an annoyance."

To Many Johnnies Her voice becoming couched in tones unusually cynical for a girl only 20, she added:

"I am young and naturally enjoy meeting people. But so many of those I meet at after-theater parties are not unlike the 'stage door Johnnie' type."

Of the lot, there must be many who are sincere, but I am afraid to permit them the chance to prove it. "I am young. I am a dancer. It is the demand of my profession that I be as glamorous as possible. But so many men lack the realization that my glamor, or most of it, is affected."

"Slipping gowns, a bit of theatrical makeup, an extraordinary background coated by lights and backdrops. Wouldn't that triumphate, plus the girl in an exotic

BRITAIN READY WITH DEFENSES

LONDON, Aug. 26 (UP)—Great Britain today is prepared for any "national emergency."

Plans for the mobilization of industry and the fighting services virtually are complete, vast reserves of oil fuel have been accumulated for the navy, and huge supplies of food and raw materials are in storage.

Furthermore the naval rebuilding program has been speeded up and is well advanced, while all but one of the 128 new air squadrons, formed when the rearmament drive began, is nearing full strength.

These encouraging statements have been made in London by Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for the Co-Ordination of Defense, after months of silence during which the various fighting departments have been working in secret to insure that Britain shall be in a position to defend its interests in any part of the world immediately if they are threatened.

Sir Thomas also said that tests have shown that Britain's new battleships will be the best protected in the world, and he recalled that H. M. S. Hunter, which was struck by a mine off the Spanish coast recently, was not even seriously damaged.

As far as London's anti-craft defense went, he said, everything was 100 per cent complete — except the personnel to man the guns. Recruitment, he admitted, was something less than 50 per cent of what was necessary, and he appealed for recruits to this and other units of the country's defense, saying that the government was preparing plans whereby a maximum number of government posts would be offered to ex-servicemen.

"Few people," he said, "realize the gigantic nature of the work we undertook when we decided on rearmament."

BRITAIN BUILDS 7-MAN MIDGET FIGHTING BOATS

Deadly Little Craft Carry Guns, Torpedoes and Depth Bombs

EXETER REVEALS TREND 'Barges' to be Useful for Surprise Attacks

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 26—(UP)—Speedy, deadly "baby-battleships", carrying a crew of only seven officers and men, have been developed by Great Britain to aid in maintaining her position as "mistress of the seas."

This was revealed by officers of H.M.S. Exeter, which stopped here for a few days, while en route to Vancouver, B. C.

The new type warcraft is capable of extremely high speeds, the officers said.

While considerable reluctance was shown by His Majesty's officers, when it came to discussion of technical details of the deadly little fighters, it was pointed out the craft will maintain speeds of 45 land miles an hour.

Carry Depth Bombs

Each carries at least two torpedo tubes, and mounts several heavy-caliber machine guns. Each also is equipped to carry depth bombs to combat submarines.

The vessels originally were designed for coast defense work, but the British Admiralty, it was admitted, believes the tiny fighters are extremely seaworthy. With this in mind, it was said, a flotilla has been sent to the Mediterranean to operate with the fleet stationed off Spain.

Almost Barge Size

British officers expressed the opinion the little craft which they described as "not much larger than a commodore's barge" will be of extremely great value in making surprise torpedo attacks at night, or under cover of a smoke screen.

The "baby-battleships" are of 15-ton displacement.

Officers aboard the Exeter said six of the "baby-battleships" already are in commission and "many, many more are building."

Fears of war in the Mediterranean, around the fortress island of Malta, has resulted in plans for basing many of the tiny craft in that vicinity, the officers hinted.

BERLIN READY FOR 11TH WORLD MILK CONGRESS

BERLIN (UP)—Berlin is preparing to receive representatives from at least 25 countries for the 11th World Milk Congress, Aug. 22-28.

Delegates from the United States, Argentina and Canada are among those expected. The congress program carries a wide variety of topics, covering problems of the milk and milk products industries.

An International Milk Exposition will be conducted concurrently and in connection with the congress, in the Deutschland Hall.

Sessions of the congress will be held in the Kroll opera house, meeting place of the German Reichstag.

A series of excursions to various parts of Germany have been arranged for delegates.

The countries expected to be represented at the congress are the United States, Argentina, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Estonia, Finland, Great Britain, Japan, Irish Free State, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Holland, Norway, Austria, Portugal, Rumania, Sweden, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary.

BETTING IN BRITAIN RISES LONDON (UP)—Betting on race-course totalisators in Great Britain increased by about $6,500,000 in 1936. Total turnover, says the annual report of the Race-course Betting control board, was $36,839,625, an increase of 19.82 percent over the previous year. Revenue for the year was $3,444,480.

His Wife Accused

PHILIP J. Hahn, husband of the Cincinnati, O., woman accused in several poisoning deaths, turned over to police a half-emptied bottle of a violent dysenteric poison. At the same time, police investigated a fifth death among elderly acquaintances of Mrs. Anna Hahn. They said also an inquiry had disclosed that the former German school teacher had come into possession of between $50,000 and $70,000 from friends in the last eight years. Mrs. Hahn, denying all knowledge of the causes of the deaths, has been held on fugitive warrants charged with the poisoning.

MINING BOOMS IN SO. AFRICA

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 26—(UP)—Civil war in Spain may bring into existence another important industry in South Africa, if certain negotiations being handled by the Union Department of Mines are successful.

Haematite ore, for which Northern Spain has hitherto been the principal source, shortly will be going forward to overseas blast furnaces, which are unable to obtain adequate supplies owing to the present blockade of Bilbao and other export centers.

Since hostilities began between the insurgents and the Spanish government, British and Continental ironmasters have been searching for new sources of supplies. Through the Imperial Institute in London, inquiries were circulated among all those countries in the commonwealth which contain potential fields. "Reference samples" supplied by the large smelting firms in the Midlands and indications the grade of ore needed were submitted to the overseas representative of the Union Mine Department at South Africa House.

The geological survey at Pretoria located vast fields of similar haematite in the Union. More than one-quarter of the imports into the United Kingdom for 1935, the last available year, was derived from Spain, namely, 1,128,949 tons out of 4,547,436 tons.

MINE AIR-CONDITIONED SUPERIOR, ARIZ. (UP)—Installation of the only underground air-conditioning system in a mine in the U. S. has been completed. Willis H. Carrier, founder of modern air-conditioning science, announced. The mine two miles north of here, belongs to the Magma Copper Company.

Squirrel Lines Nest With American Flags

MADISON, Wis. Aug. 26—(UP)—E. W. Mutchler, custodian of Forest Hill cemetery, who has been sitting up nights trying to catch the thief stealing flags off soldiers' graves, sleeps peacefully now.

So many of the flags disappeared that the remaining old ones were replaced. Then the new ones started to disappear—and Mutchler sat up nights trying to catch the small boys he believed responsible for the flags vanishing.

A hard wind storm solved the mystery. A squirrel's nest was blown out of a tree. It was lined with 21 new American flags. Mutchler climbed trees and examined other squirrel nests. All were lined with flags, old and new.

Passengers Offered Tip If Driver Is Reckless

LINCOLN, Neb. Aug. 26—(UP)—Don't cross your legs if you are riding in the front seat of an automobile with a reckless driver. That is the advice of Dr. Robert Funsten, professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Virginia. He read a paper on "Dashboard Dislocations of the Hip" at the 50th annual convention of the American Orthopaedic association here.

This type injury is a frequent result of automobile collisions and presents a serious surgical problem, he said. The passenger in the front seat can avoid it by planting both feet on the floor boards and leaning well back in the seat.

If he crosses his legs, he is apt to dislocate his hip as well as injure his knee. That means confinement in a hospital for eight or ten weeks, Dr. Funsten said.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES

WILLIAM FIELDING OGBURN of the University of Chicago has been directing a subcommittee of the National Resources Committee in the preparation of a recently issued report on technological trends, including the social implications of new inventions. Among the findings and recommendations made was a suggestion that a board be established to keep track of 13 of the new technologies and try to work out what will be the social impacts of their development in the next 20 years. Beyond that Mr. Ogburn and his committee wisely did not try to pierce any veils. The 13 which bid fair to disturb the future are these:

Synthetic rubber
Automobile trailers
Plastics
Artificial cotton and woolen-like fibres from cellulose
Prefabricated houses
The mechanical cotton picker
Air conditioning
Gasoline produced from coal
Facsimile transmission. This means the transmitting of photographs, drawings and printed messages by radio.)
Steep flight airplanes
Tray agriculture (growing plants in water containing nutrient chemicals)

It is the part of wisdom to look ahead a little at what these things may do to us as well as for us. The more man trains a really observing eye on his new world the better he may learn to make his way in it. The difficulty, of course, is the unforeseen factors. But every pioneer has those to contend with. As for the known dangers, he survived who looked before he leapt.

LIFE-LONG EDUCATION

THE recognized fact that true education is never finished, but goes on as long as the mind is active, saved a generous inheritance to the beneficiary of an educational bequest. Dr. Beran Wolfe, psychiatrist and author, set up for his 15-year-old brother a trust fund to be used for his education. The question arose as to whether that fund should be terminated when the young man finished his formal schooling.

The judge, quoting Plato, Solon the lawgiver, Cardinal Newman and Webster, ruled that formal study and instruction are only part of education. "All the experiences of life," the "happenings of a social existence among one's fellows" are education. Thus the trust fund is to be payable for life.

There is sense in the judge's decision, even if it may not be what the elder brother intended when he first planned the trust fund. It is better to have the matter so

BILL HITS TAX PAYMENT DELAY

WASHINGTON—Big-shot corporation lawyers have a painful surprise—in store for them in a bill that Washington's adroit Senator Homer T. Bone slipped quietly through Congress in the closing days of the recent session.

The measure consists only of 100 words, but it carries the sock of a Big Bertha. In some respects it is a far more important reform of judicial procedure than the famous substitute for the President's scuttled Supreme Court bill. It strikes a death blow at a favorite corporate practice of evading taxation by legal delays and red tape.

Certain corporations, notably railroads and utilities, are in the habit of resisting state and county taxes by obtaining injunctions in the federal courts against the collection of the public revenues assessed against them. By technicalities and other legalistic stratagems, these suits frequently are dragged out for years.

Finally, pressed for funds, the States and counties offer to compromise. This is just what the corporations are after, and they settle for a fraction of their original tax.

Bone's act puts an end to this. In effect, it says, pay first and litigate afterwards. It does this by barring the federal courts to litigants seeking relief from local taxes, except in cases where they have been paid and claim refunds.

Working softly and deftly, the canny Washingtonian maneuvered his measure through the House and Senate with practically no debate. He estimates that it will bring as much as $100,000,000 annually in additional corporation taxes to States and counties.

SHE'D BE SURPRISED

When Mrs. Roosevelt has to have her hair done, she does just as any other woman would do. She doesn't call a hairdresser, but goes to an establishment in a department store two blocks from the White House.

There she has no more privacy than the other customers. Instead of being provided with a cubicle where she could be groomed in seclusion, the First Lady is seated in a circle intime with a dozen other women.

Her attendant is a man, "Paul", who takes great pride in serving his distinguished customer. He is so short that he scarcely stands higher than Mrs. Roosevelt when she is seated.

Swathed in aprons and towels, with one helmet after another fastened on her head, Mrs. Roosevelt sits in the neighborly group, smiling and nodding, and knitting all the time. The machines make too much noise for conversation.

One day a customer took a seat in the circle and glanced around at the group. Then she remarked to a companion, "See that woman with the 'steamer' on her head? She's a dead ringer for Mrs. Roosevelt."

arranged legally than to have the younger brother—as might conceivably have happened in this or a like instance—keep on taking random college courses for the rest of his life.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

CHAPTER 33

WHEN MARI returned to Paris she had to describe the Maharaja above everyone else. "Did he look like an Indian?" Letitia Higgins asked, eyes agog. "Well, he didn't look Spanish. And he didn't look like an American Indian. And he was sweet!" Mari said. "Imagine, Letitia, he had 12 tennis courts, a movie picture auditorium right in the house, a ballroom and a dining room where 80 people could sit at one table!"

"Did he wear emeralds and a turban?" Mari laughed. "Certainly not, except at court functions. But he did give the ball for me." "And he did invite you to India?" My goodness, I read 'THE SHIEK' and I don't think you ought to go there."

"Letitia, he doesn't live in a tent. And someday, when this shop belongs to me and not to my creditors, I'm going there. I'm going everywhere! Travel does everything... it helps you not to feel alone."

For Letitia! Her short-sighted eyes peered out of her thick glasses at her employer and she sighed, thinking of all that some women had. Mari had no idea of what her secretary was thinking. She hadn't much time those days to know what she was thinking herself. She found it almost possible to be in three places at once. Miss Higgins seldom found it possible to keep up with her. Mari was at the new shop during the morning, hurrying from there to the small one to meet her customers, to direct the sewing women, and later to receive the army of representatives attendant on her opening. Her evenings were reserved for Larry Holk, the publicity man.

The jewels and the magnificent ermine cape had gone back to the houses from which they were loaned to her, having served their purpose of having been photographed on "the beautiful Madame Maribarat"—with due credit to their source.

Mari scarcely had time to glance through the mounting press notices which poured in through the offices of Larry Holk. They lay for days on her littered desk, under sketches, invoices and receipts.

She was pleasantly stunned to pick up a copy of British VOGUE and see her photograph—they'd given a whole page to it—in the white gown she'd worn to the Maharaja's ball. Almost instantly the dressmaker in her responded critically and she forgot her personal pleasure. She'd been afraid that it was too daring, too theatrical. The way that panel swept down from the center of her turban to make a panel ending in an adroitly caught-up train. Perhaps it wouldn't be a bad idea...

She rang for her chief cutter and ordered him to duplicate the gown in scarlet.

It was that way with everything she did; nothing had a personal relationship to her. It was THE SHOP.

It was well that she had the shop—the new one—to engage her that spring. Spring always did things to her. This was her fourth in Paris. It was five years since the spring when Tony Castle had come into her life, but he came back anew to her whenever spring came.

SOMEDAY HE'LL KNOW had changed to: PERHAPS, HE HAS HEARD OF ME BY NOW. Yet, curiously, she had no feeling that she would ever hear from him. If, perchance, some thought winged its way swiftly through her mind telling her that he would write to congratulate her, she put it from her. It was not good to invite disappointment.

But surely he must hear of her, for the whole world was hearing of Maribarat.

If they talked about her in a limited social world in London, if her name was known to American manufacturers and to fashion writers ever on the alert for rising stars, it was beginning to appear elsewhere, too.

In London she had posed with Hal Joffe, editor of the widely read CINEMA ART, and that magazine had done a story about the possibilities of her going to Hollywood to design clothes for the stars.

"Bosh!" said Mari when she heard of it. "I wouldn't go for all the gold my phantom father was supposed to have mined. Letitia, tell Dumonde he'll have to take the molding off those walls in the East Blue Room. It's too wide. And tell him to hurry. I'll want to have that room ready to show in the week before we open."

Things were beginning to get frantic then. The opening was only two weeks away. Already the sewing staff was installed in the workroom, the last of the models was in the process of making, and the usual maddening things were happening. A piece of brocade that was especially ordered was being held up. The embroiderers were alarmingly slow getting the green woools with the quail pattern finished.

Mari was on edge, nervous, frightened a little. A Hollywood producer wrote and asked her if she'd like a screen test. A woman she had met in London asked her to join her party leaving for Switzerland. A little girl in Birmingham, Ala., wrote and asked her if she would design a graduation dress for her. Mari threw all of them away except for the letter from the little girl in Birmingham. To her she sent a length of embroidered organdie and a sketch.

"I had to do it, Larry," she said. "It's my only link with my own country. Of all the mess of things that have been pouring in here, that's the only real sign that I have that I'm known at all at home."

"That reminds me, Mari! How about going through this batch of photographs? International News Photos wants an action picture of you."

"Oh, Lord, another one? All right... Letitia! Will you please bring me that batch of pictures somebody took when I was getting on the plane to leave England?"

Letitia brought them. Mari shoved them across the desk to Larry. "Take your pick." "I'd rather you made the selection. This picture is going home, you know. Lots of people you know will see them."

Mari lifted her eyebrows, and with an unbelieving smile ran through them hastily.

She selected one of herself about to board the plane. Her face, with a radiant smile, was turned toward the camera. Her arm was raised in a gay gesture of farewell. The picture had life. It showed a stunning, smart young woman, a radiant successful young woman.

"How's that?" she asked. Larry said it would do, and pasted a strip of typewritten copy across the back. It was the usual thing: "Mari Barat, rising young couturiere, returns to Paris for opening of her new establishment after successful social season in London. Among those who entertained for her was the Maharaja of Rajmbla who gave a ball for her at his famous house at Windsor."

"Tripe! But no one I know will see it," Mari said.

Tony Castle saw it nearly a month later. His own shadow fell across his easel. It was too late to work, too hot in the late afternoon to walk to the village. He seldom read newspapers these days, but there was the village paper where Duke, his setter, had dropped it in his effort to be of service.

Tony turned the pages idly. And there SHE was! He clipped the badly reproduced photograph, and studying it, he saw the one thing he wanted to do, the thing that would give his work purpose. Regretting the dying light that prohibited him from starting at once, he put the clipping away in a drawer with a red ribbon he had won long ago.

DIET AND HEALTH

Action of Perspiration and Use of Deterrents

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAVE BEEN asked whether there is any harm in perspiration deterrents. I had better answer the question first which I will by saying "No," and then explain.

There are two kinds of sweat glands in the human body. One is the short coil gland which is found in great profusion all over the body.

This gland secretes the fluid perspiration alone, and may be found anywhere on the skin whether there are hairs or not, as on the palms of the hand. These are called the eccrine glands. The other kind of gland secretes not only the fluid perspiration, but also casts off some of its cells in the secretion. It is always found in association with a hair follicle. These are called the apocrine glands. They are found mostly in the arm pits, around the nipples and over the pubes.

The apocrine glands are present in great numbers in hairy animals. The small sweat gland abundantly present on the skin of man, is almost entirely absent in animals.

Not Harmful
The two kinds of glands have different functions. The small coil sweat gland acts as a heat regulator by evaporation: 87 per cent of heat loss of the body is accounted for this way. The apocrine gland has no function, it is probably an undeveloped, or degenerated milk gland.

To stop the secretion of the arm-pit glands is therefore of no consequence. Several chemicals are capable of doing this—formaldehyde, alum, oxygen bearing or oxygen releasing compounds such as the perborates, peroxides and oxyquinolin sulfate.

Perspiration depressants and deodorants cannot be divided. Few preparations are either the one or the other. Menthol and camphor are the drugs used most often for deodorization alone.

The near specific for depressing perspiration is aluminum chloride. It works satisfactorily. It does reduce the flow of perspiration. It also affects the clothing which touches the site of application so that repeated washings rot it out.

So if you want to make your own anti-perspiration compound, the following prescription is recommended:
Aluminum chloride 16, distilled water 100. Dissolve and filter. It has the appearance of fresh dew.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
J. D.: "What is the best opinion as to the age at which hare lip and cleft palate operations are most successful?"

Answer: Dunning, in 1936, said: "The cleft in the bone in the front of the mouth should be closed in the first few weeks, if the baby is doing well. The opening, or split in the lip, should be closed two or three weeks after the bone operation, if the baby is in good condition, and the palate should be repaired during the third or fourth year."

Of my own swift-gliding craft:
Set sail! farewell fair abate.
We shoot through the sparkling foam

Like an ocean-bird set free;—
Like the ocean-bird, our home
We'll find far out on the sea.

The land is no longer in view,
The clouds have begun to frown;
But with a stout vessel and crew,
We'll say, Let the storm come down!

Mary E. Crist Becomes Charles Walters' Bride

Dr. Troutman Reads Ring Ceremony In Church

A service impressive in its solemn dignity marked the twilight wedding of Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. Edward Crist, and Mr. Charles Howard Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walters of Circleville township, Wednesday, at Trinity Lutheran church.

The altar and chancel of the church were banked with lovely potted ferns, interspersed with large baskets of peach colored gladioli. On either side of the steps to the altar were tall candelabra holding six burning white tapers, these with the altar candles furnishing all the lighting in the church.

In the half hour preceding the service, Mr. Carl Palm played a program of nuptial music on the organ, his numbers being "Oh Promise Me", and "All for You". Mrs. Avery Eichinger, of Columbus, sang two solos, "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly", and whistled "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life", accompanied at the organ by Mr. Palm. As the hour of 6:30 approached, Mr. Palm modulated into the strains of the Mendelssohn Wedding March, and the Rev. Dr. G. J. Troutman, senior pastor of the church, took his place before the altar. Mr. Walters accompanied by his best man, Mr. Robert Hessong, of Akron, came to the chancel to await the coming of his bride.

Mr. Hillard Gehres of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mr. Howard Dresbach, of Columbus, the ushers, preceded the bridesmaids down the aisle. Miss Mary Walters, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Beatrice Hosler, of Coshocton, served as bridesmaids. They were dressed in floor length aqua taffeta gowns, made with short puff sleeves, and high necks in front. The V openings at the back of the waists were tied with bows of peach velvet ribbons, and the trimmings of the dresses were of the same ribbon. They carried arm bouquets of Briarcliff roses and were buds of the same roses in their hair. Mrs. Hillard Gehres, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was of peach taffeta with aqua velvet ribbon trimmings and the style was similar to the dresses of the bridesmaids. She carried Johanna Hill roses and wore matching rose buds in her hair.

Miss Crist's wedding gown was of exquisite white lace, fashioned on princess lines, attractive in its simplicity. It was made with high neck and long sleeves finished at the hands with points, and with the tiny puffs at the shoulder caught with white gardenias. A row of small silk-covered buttons ran from the neck to the waistline in the back, and the dress was floor length with a train in the back. She wore an English half veil shirred to a close fitting cap finished in front with a coronet of real lace and seed pearls. A few orange blossoms were on one side of the cap. She used white accessories and carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

As Miss Crist joined the bride-

used), one-half pound macaroni, broken in pieces. Boil macaroni in rapidly boiling water until tender, then put in buttered baking dish macaroni, cheese and tomatoes in layers with oven until cheese is well melted.

How to Broil
For broiling, the oven is thoroughly pre-heated. Then, with the regulator turned "high" the meat is placed on the broiler rack, far enough from the flame or element that by the time the meat is nicely browned on the top, it will be half done. This usually means a distance of about three inches. If the distance must be less, then reduce the temperature accordingly. When one side is done, season with salt and pepper, turn and allow to finish cooking on the second side.

Late Rally Gives Toledo Edge Over Brewers

BY UNITED PRESS

Columbus remained a half game ahead of Toledo and Minneapolis today as each of the three leading teams scored victories yesterday in their American Association games.

Columbus defeated Kansas City 4-1. Macon, Red Bird hurler, handed the Blues seven scattered hits while his teammates pounded Breuer for 10.

Enos Slaughter was the big gun of the Columbus attack, having four hits in four times at bat. One of his hits was a home run in the fifth that drove in two runs, while his fourth hit, a single in the seventh, sent across the final Columbus tally.

Toledo remained in a second place tie with Minneapolis by downing Milwaukee 10-6. The Hens drove in four runs in the seventh and two in the eighth to win.

Minneapolis defeated Indianapolis 10-1. Two Minneapolis runs were scored in the eighth and four in the ninth.

Louisville and St. Paul split a doubleheader, the first game going

YESTERDAY'S HERO — Jimmy Rippe, Giants' outfielder, whose homer with two on in the 9th inning of the first game enabled New York to come from behind to beat the Cubs.

For Louis, Breeze: for Farr, Lightning Flashes

By HENRY McEMORE
NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(UP)—Salient facts on tonight's world heavyweight championship fight:

Place: Yankee Stadium—the official abattoir of the New York Yankees baseball team. It is in the stadium, in October, that the team unluckily enough to win the National league pennant will be pole-axed. It is such a frightening place that the Cubs took one look at its chilly ramparts from the Polo Grounds yesterday, and meekly handed the Giants two games.

Principals: Joe Louis—23, the color of Aunt Emma's caramel custards, social lion of Harlem's Sugar Hill, and the only man in America who can be arrested for carrying concealed weapons whenever he puts his hands in his pockets.

Tommy Farr: 23, has a face like a professional house-haunter, born in Tony Pandy, Wales, which is a place known only to Tommy and Rand McNally, talks like something out of Dickens, and will get the Dickens knocked out of him tonight.

Time: 7 a. m., Bombay; 12 noon, Sydney; 4 p. m., Moscow, and 10 p. m. New York. That is, if your watch is correct.
Estimated attendance (by Promoter Mike Jacobs): 50,000.
Estimated attendance (by unbiased parties): 35,000.

Farr's chance of taking title: About the same as a fellow would have of making a "7" with one die, which, if I'm not confusing it with stadia, is singular for dice.

Louis' chance of retaining title: All Joe has to do is avoid rigor mortis, measles, and housemaid's knee.

Betting odds: There is no betting. The one man who showed up with some Farr money was grabbed by the Smithsonian Institute, and today swings from the ceiling along with Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis and Eli Whitney's cotton gin.

Weather: For Farr—stormy with lightning flashes. For Louis—just a light breeze.

Weights: Farr—about 14 stone, and each one will seem a millstone along about 10:17 p. m. Louis—198, or about one a second for the time it will take him to finish the fight.

Referee: Unnamed as yet, but likely to be chosen from the 10 highest ranking students of the Upper Long Island School of Embalming and Repair.

Scheduled Distance: Fifteen rounds, and for the benefit of those who think it will go that far my telephone number is Hywater 9-3343. If I'm not in please leave your number, because I want to talk to you.

Early Lead of Coca Colas Goes For Naught After Batters Get Busy

SIX RUNS TURN TIDE

Ike Davis' Home Run Gives Losers Assistance

Container Corporation athletes were one-up on the Coca Colas in the playoff for the second half championship of the softball league, Thursday, after a 9-6 victory Tuesday evening.

The teams will battle again Thursday evening, the series ending if the strawboard outfit is victorious. The first squad to win two games will compete with the Commercial Point team for the league crown.

Containers trailed 2 to 6 until they batted in the third inning, six runs being driven over in that session.

Ike Davis' homer in the second with two on gave the Coca Colas a temporary lead, but Chuck Hill couldn't stop the strawboard clubbers. Bob Jones was called to the mound to stop the barrage, but he could do very little to change the tide of victory.

Because of darkness the game went only six innings.

Leonard Buskirk did the tossing for the victorious team, blanking the Coca Colas in the last three frames.

Things are doing at the high school athletic field : : : Electric company workmen have started to stretch wires in preparation to installing the big reflector lights : : : Yea man, that field will be ready when the gridiron season rolls around : : : Some of Jack Landrum's hopefuls are not waiting for next week in order to get some practice sessions behind them : : : Bob Bowsher, Paul Walters and several others can be seen parading the streets in the late afternoon with a football tucked under an arm : : : Landrum hopes his squad will be in condition to start hard work as soon as the drills begin : : : The coach returns to Circleville next Wednesday : : : Did you read what lights mean to Mechanicsburg? : : : The attendance at all night games outnumbered the town's population : : : That's something : : : The first time a Circleville crowd of 8,000 sees a football game, then ye janitor is going in for a jockey's job * * *

YOUNG HILL ACE FANS 16 BATTERS IN 8 TO 1 GAME

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26—(UP)—Bob Feller was the talk of the baseball world again today.

The 18-year-old Iowa schoolboy, who had a meteoric rise to pitching fame late last year and during the training period this season and then dropped to the tortuous depths of failure when his arm was injured early in the championship campaign, pitched the greatest game of his short career here yesterday as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox 8 to 1 in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Indians dropped the second contest 7 to 2, but that was of little importance.

Feller, the fireball phenomenon, was at his best yesterday. His performance surpassed even those he turned in when he struck out 15 of the St. Louis Browns last year and fanned 17 of the Philadelphia Athletics to tie Dean's major league record.

Bob struck out 16 of the Red Sox and the only run he gave a club that has been in the thick of the battle for second place in the American league all season was unearned.

The Iowa farmboy struck out every regular in the Red Sox lineup at least once with the exception of Ben Chapman. The Boston crew garnered only four hits off Feller and Chapman made two of those.

DOUBLE DEFEAT OF CUBS MAKES RACE THREE-WAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 — (UP)—The National League pennant race was in the laps of the gods today after the strongest link of the Chicago Cubs had cracked.

Billy Jurges and Billy Herman, the Cubs' defensive bulwarks buckled yesterday against the Giants and tossed away a vital game which may cost the Cubs the flag. The loss cut the Cubs' lead from four to only two games.

The Giants' double triumph over the Cubs, 8-7 and 4-2, and the Cardinals' twin victory over Brooklyn, 4-2 and 5-2, made the National league derby a three-horse race again.

Briefly the contenders may be sized up as follows:
Cubs — Staggering under pressure but still the team to beat.
Giants — A lucky team, making the most of every break and refusing to quit.
Cardinals — Moving up fast behind improved pitching for a typical Gashouse gang finish.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

HOW MANY HAS THE FOE?

TO THE FINE player, a suit bid usually depends upon the number of cards in the suit and the honor strength in the hand. He cares little about how much of the honor strength is in the suit he names, so long as he has it somewhere around. The vital thing, in probing for a safe trump suit, is to locate one in which the opponents will run out of trumps before the declarer's side, which usually means one in which the defenders hold a total of not more than five cards.

down one. The no trump players were down one in some instances and two in others.

The only pair who made a game contract on the deal had as the South player S. Garton Churchill of Brooklyn, who, with Charles Lochridge of New York, recently won the national men's pair championship. The bidding at his table started with 1-Heart by himself, 2-Diamonds by West, 2-No Trumps by North, 3-Spades by Mr. Churchill and 4-Spades by North.

Regardless of the opening lead, this contract could not be defeated, as the only tricks the opponents were able to take were three trump tricks.

This particular deal came up in a very large duplicate and only one pair reached the correct contract. The hand was played at some tables at 4-Hearts and at others the contract was 3-No Trump.

The heart declarers were obliged to lose one trick in trumps and three tricks in spades, so were

4-H CLUB REPRESENTATIVES SELECTED FOR OHIO FAIR COMPETITION

EIGHT IN COUNTY TO TAKE PART IN STATE CONTEST

Velma Calvert and Mary Alice Puffinbarger in Style Revue

DEMONSTRATORS NAMED

Food and Livestock Teams Announced, Too

Misses Velma Calvert, Walnut township, and Mary Alice Puffinbarger, Williamsport, will represent Pickaway county in the style revue for 4-H club members at the Ohio State Fair.

The girls were selected Wednesday afternoon at a county revue held in the Farm Bureau home. Miss Calvert, a member of the Magic Sewing club, was the only entrant in the class for a complete costume made as a club project. Her outfit was a wool suit for sports and street wear with complete accessories.

Miss Puffinbarger, a member of the Live Wire Clothing club, wore a print school dress. She will enter in the class for "well dressed 4-H club girls." Misses Virginia Ater, also of Williamsport, and Dorothy Hinkle, Ashville, won second and third places in this class, respectively. There were six contestants.

Bowman Girls Win

Mary Kathryn and Helen Lois Bowman, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Bowman, Washington township, members of the Jolly Stitches club, won first place in the contest for clothing demonstration teams. They presented a demonstration on altering patterns for larger or smaller persons. Their mother is the club leader. Five clubs presented demonstrations.

Joan Downing and Adabelle May, members of the Wayne Willing Workers food club, will represent the county in a food club demonstration. Only one team participated in the county event.

Joe Vause and Frederick Barthelmas, of the Duvall Go-Getters livestock club, will represent the county in that branch of the 4-H club program. They will demonstrate the treatment of pigs for worms. They formed the only team participating from the county.

Judges for the local revue Wednesday were Misses Mabel Westervelt, home agent of Fairfield county, and her assistant, Velma Palsley.

Crosby May Provide $25,000 for Montague

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 26—(UP)—John Montague, Hollywood's strong, silent man of the golf links, will be admitted to $25,000 bail on a robbery charge this afternoon, it was reported in a reliable source today.

Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brewster will deliver his decision on whether to grant bail to Montague after considering the question two days.

Montague will go on trial during the week of Oct. 11, charged with participating in a $700 holdup of a Jay, N. Y., tavern in 1930, during which an elderly man was beaten and three other persons were bound and gagged.

He was confident that if acquitted, he "could make a million dollars playing golf." Bing Crosby, one of his closest friends, and other motion picture celebrities contend he is the "uncrowned champion" of the golf world.

Crosby To Give Bail

Crosby, expected to be present at today's hearing, will provide the $25,000 bail, it was reported.

Montague—the state claims his real name is LaVerne Moore—was cheered by one development that followed his visit to a drug store yesterday for an informal birthday celebration. He was 32, and four state troopers marched him from the jail through curious crowds to the store, where he bowed to the proprietor and ordered an ice cream soda.

A few feet away sat three of the victims of a $700 roadhouse robbery, in which Montague allegedly participated with three other men in 1930. They were Mrs. Kin Hanna, wife of the tavern owner, and her daughters, Nomie, 24, and Doris, 17.

District Attorney Thomas McDonald refused to say whether he had arranged the visit, but the Hannas studied Montague carefully, while pretending to be absorbed in plates of ice cream. After the prisoner had left, Nomie said:—

"I don't know whether that fellow was there at the time of the robbery. I heard one of the bandits say, 'Mon, tie them up,' but I couldn't say it was him."

She said she could not identify Montague's voice "because the man that tied me up didn't speak. All I asked of him was 'don't choke me.'"

Mrs. Hanna and Doris said nothing.

Returned To Cell

Montague was returned to his cell to await Justice Brewster's decision. He spent most of his time reading and sleeping, while his reputation as a "hearty eater" faded away in the face of the scanty jail fare—cereal, coffee and bread.

His plea for bail—his Hollywood friends were reported ready to advance any amount—was opposed vigorously by McDonald, who described the 1930 robbery as "the most vicious crime in my 10 years as district attorney."

Brewster already had declared that Montague could not receive special privileges simply because of his association with movie stars. It was generally believed, however, that bail would be granted.

Young Ohioans Sought For Next C.C.C. Lineup

Pickaway County young men who have been forced by lack of funds to give up their dream of attending high school or college are offered a golden opportunity to continue their education this fall in C. C. C. camps.

Several thousand Ohio young men who enroll for the six-month period beginning Oct. 1 will find both academic and vocational courses awaiting them, it was pointed out today by the C. C. C. selecting agent for this county, Delos H. Marcy, director, Pickaway County Relief Adm., 401 East Main street.

Wherever possible C. C. C. camp officials will make arrangements for the enrollees to attend classes in nearby high schools or colleges. More than 200,000 C. C. C. boys have studied high school courses, more than 50,000 have studied college courses since the inception of the C. C. C. four years ago. In addition, 50,000 illiterates have been taught to read and write, 300,000 have been better grounded in grade school subjects and 1,000,000 have acquired some vocational skill.

Vocational courses include forestry, cooking, electricity, clerking, typing, elementary engineering, road building, medical and dental assistance, mechanics, use of explosives and handicraft. The courses vary somewhat with different camps.

Besides advancing his education and earning wages for himself and his dependents, the C. C. C. boy has the benefit of outdoor life, good, clothing and shelter. (The average boy usually gains 12 pounds in a six-month period.)

Local boys wishing to enroll in a C. C. C. camp should contact the county C. C. C. selecting agent at once. Applicants must be unmarried, unemployed and in need of employment, in good physical condition, citizens, and between 17 and 23 years old inclusive.

Photographic effects reached a new importance in Hollywood in filmatizing Thorne Smith's fantastic story of the hilariously funny and thrill adventures of two lovely ghosts, as portrayed by Constance Bennett and Cary Grant.

Here are a few of the many unusual scenes in this screen play which create astounding legende-main with the celluloid: the beautiful lady ghost (Constance Bennett) at one point reaches down, grasps a zipper on her dress and zips half of herself right off the screen. When the handsome male

CONCRETE

Traffic on busy streets is measured in millions of car-miles annually—and millions of car stops. Can you make these stops swiftly, surely, with least possible skidding? You can if your streets are concrete. Concrete's gritty surface grips and holds tires, offers maximum traction in any weather. Its uniform riding surface gives you driving confidence—a further safety aid. And at night, concrete's light-gray, highly visible color makes your streets safer for motorist and pedestrian alike.

For economy, for good appearance—and for safety—insist on concrete.

FOUR OFFICIALS BLOCK SPECIAL COUNCIL CONFAB

Men Who Voted Light Rate
Contract Fail to Heed
Call to Meeting

REFERENDUM IS QUESTION

Three Members See Passage
Of Vote Ordinance

A special meeting of council Wednesday night was a failure. Three councilmen who called the meeting and John C. Goeller, president, all of whom are opposed to the 10-year light rate contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., were present. Four council members who favored the lengthy contract were absent. Ben Gordon, Harry Steinhauser and Julius Helwenger issued the call for the special meeting to consider an ordinance to place the light rate controversy before voters on Nov. 2. Those who failed to report for the meeting were E. S. Neuding, C. O. Leist, T. M. Barnes and Frank Marion.

Quorum Missing

The meeting was called for 8 p. m. Members present waited until 8:25 o'clock before starting the session. The call was read by Clerk Fred R. Nicholas. He called the roll. Since a quorum was not present the group adjourned. The proceedings lasted three minutes. Immediately after the meeting was adjourned the three members issued a call for a special meeting for Thursday at 8 p. m. In the event the other four members fail to report Thursday night, Mr. Gordon indicated another called meeting would be arranged for Friday night.

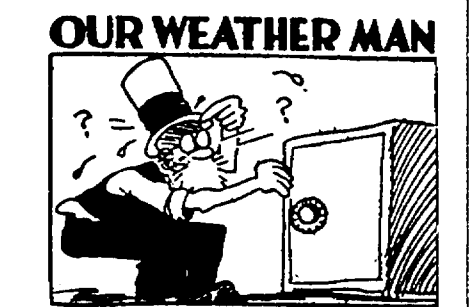

Mr. Neuding was reported attending a conference of the United Brethren church, in Newark. Why the other members failed to attend the meeting was not learned.

Mr. Gordon said he believed the fact that Mr. Neuding was out of the city had some bearing on the failure of the other members to report. "That would make a vote three to three," Mr. Gordon said, "and Mr. Goeller would vote in that case." The president of council has been opposed to the lengthy contract, but has had no opportunity to vote in any of the council proceedings.

Regular Session Wednesday

In the event the four members failed to report either Thursday or Friday night, Mr. Gordon indicated no meeting would be called Saturday night. The next regular meeting of council will be held Wednesday.

Although the regular Wednesday night meeting is 80 days before the Nov. 2 election, the group opposing the rate ordinance believe it is figuring dates "too close." In (Continued on Page Four)

New Plane Propellor Adds Speed

Curtiss - Wright Completes
Blade Capable of 300
Miles an Hour

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(UP)—A new airplane propellor, capable of assuring speeds as high as 300 miles an hour and providing the most efficient pitch for all flight conditions, was announced today by officials of the Curtiss-Wright Airplane corporation.

The propellor, of the three-bladed type with hollow steel blades, is revolutionary in design, changing mechanically the blade pitch formerly controlled by hydraulics. It has an individual electric motor which will provide an increased pitch with a range up to 90 degrees.

Burdette S. Wright, vice-president and general manager of the airplane corporation, revealed the war department has contracted for 240 of the propellers to be installed on pursuit planes. Cost of these propellers was estimated at $512,262.25.

The new blade, Wright said, is similar to those now in service on other high performance army pursuit planes but differs in that it provides automatic but mechanical control of the blade angles.

F. D. R. STUDYING SPECIAL SESSION, OTHER PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—President Roosevelt goes tonight to the quiet of his Hyde Park, N. Y., country home to consider calling congress into special session this fall for a showdown on his legislative program.

The president leaves the crush of White House routine at mid-evening by special train. Two other allied questions will confront him as he sits in his pine-paneled study overlooking the Hudson river. They are: 1. Should he stump the country in person or by radio to crystallize the popular support he believes is behind his defeated court program and his pending surplus crop control and labor proposals? 2. Should the newly-signed lower court procedure bill be used as a "stepping stone" to another attempt to achieve aims of his original supreme court enlargement plan?

Although there is no official confirmation, observers are inclined to believe that Mr. Roosevelt now leans toward an extra session in November or December.

PAY BOOST REFUSED

'Big Five' Brotherhoods to Direct Action

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Representatives of railway labor met today to decide on a strike call to enforce demands for a wage increase refused by the carriers yesterday.

The "big five" brotherhoods said the carriers' flat refusal was "not acceptable" and that a date for calling out 300,000 operating trainmen would be set immediately.

Carriers and labor leaders agreed two courses of possible action to avert a strike remained open. The Federal Mediation Board could intervene of its own accord and demand a review of the situation. An emergency could be declared by presidential proclamation and an emergency board appointed.

The emergency board would have 30 days in which to make its report and another 30 days would have to elapse before a strike call could become effective.

Compromise Reached

Intervention by the Federal Mediation Board resulted in compromise of $50,000 non-operating railroad employees' demands for a 20 cents an hour wage increase last month. The compromise granted them five cents an hour (Continued on Page Four)

DRASTIC ECONOMY DRIVE PLANNED TO CUT PUBLIC DEBT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Administration congressional leaders today planned a drastic economy drive to balance the budget for the next fiscal year and to make progress toward reduction of a record breaking $37,000,000,000 public debt.

Acting Chairman Clarence Cannon, D. Mo., of the house appropriations committee, detailed plans for the campaign in a statement to reporters. He asserted that reductions were in order "all along the line," some as much as 30 percent, with curtailment or elimination of some federal activities.

Cannon, one of a group of house leaders who remained after adjournment to discuss the future legislative program with President Roosevelt, has assured active direction of the appropriations committee because of the recent illness of Chairman Edward T. Taylor, D. Colo.

FAIRFIELD RURAL LIGHT PROGRAM SHOWS PROGRESS

LANCASTER, Aug. 26.—Approximately 425 rural homes in Fairfield county will receive electricity as a Christmas gift, dispatches from Washington reveal.

In announcing acceptance of a bid of $90,772 of the Anders Asphalt Paving Co., Hamilton, for the construction of power lines, R. E. A. officials said that under the contract 120 miles of lines will be ready for operation next Dec. 24. The Fairfield county project is a branch of a tri-county program including Pickaway and Perry counties. Fairfield county's project is being financed through a loan of $105,000 from the R.E.A., obtained last May. Additional funds for projects in the other two counties have been assured.

NORMAL GIRL BORN TO MIDGET COUPLE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Birth of a normal five-pound baby girl to a midget mother weighing only 67 pounds was reported today.

The infant, delivered through Caesarian section, and the mother, Mrs. Frank Delfino, were reported "doing well" at Abbott hospital, where the birth reportedly occurred Tuesday.

The hospital refused to discuss the case or indicate who had been the attending physician.

The father of the child also is a midget who wooed and won Mrs. Delfino, the former Sadie Williams, while both were appearing in the Chicago "Century of Progress" world's fair in 1933.

Delfino was a violin player in a midget orchestra. Mrs. Delfino was appearing at a nearby concession.

Since their marriage they have been tramping together, Mrs. Delfino appearing in a dancing act until the time of her confinement.

One of their most recent engagements was at the Great Lakes Exposition, in Cleveland. The father stood on a chair to peer into the nursery for his first look at the infant today and announced she would be named Ruth Frances Marie Delfino. "Ain't she a honey," he exclaimed.

He was not permitted to see his wife, who is three feet, 10 inches tall.

The baby measured 18 inches in height—more than one third the height of her parents. She has black hair. Nurses said she has full-size lung power.

As soon as the mother is strong enough to see visitors she will receive her closest friend, Mrs. Fremont Leslie, a three-foot 10 inch midget married to a fully grown man, six feet tall.

Mrs. Leslie gave birth to a normal daughter in 1930. She and Mrs. Delfino formerly tramped together.

The Leslie child, Jane, was seven years old June 16, and is taller than her mother.

Delfino said birth of the baby will keep him and his little wife in Minneapolis for about a year. "We wouldn't think of going out without the baby, you know," he said.

The two Delfinos recently have been touring the country in a miniature car in an advertising job.

"Ruth is going to go tramping with us when she's old enough to walk," he said.

FRANCO'S FORCE WINS SANTANDER WITHOUT BATTLE

SANTANDER, Spain, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Thousands of Nationalist troops poured into this ancient seaport on the Biscay coast today. The insurgent "fifth army" within the city had overthrown the local government and raised the red and gold flag of the monarchy.

Thousands of Loyalists were taken prisoner by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's legions who captured the city without firing a shot after they had battered their way for months down the Cantabrian coast.

Nationalist civilians within Santander—one of the units of the so-called "fifth army" operating behind government lines—became masters of the city after bloody street fighting. It was revealed that they had been planning their coup for months. The revolt was staged by civil guards and Rightists who had remained in hiding all during the Nationalist offensive in the north, fearing for their lives.

After several hours of fighting, Santander passed into the hands of the Franco sympathizers.

Franco was notified immediately, and it was decided that the main body of the Nationalist army would wait until today to formally occupy the town.

MISSOURI YOUTH ROBS BANK, THEN GIVES BACK $350

CALHOUN, Mo., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Charles Hill, a young native of this town, believes he was crazy yesterday when he walked in and robbed the bank where he kept an account and knew all the clerks by their first names.

He came back and surrendered late last night, eight hours after he had hustled out of town with $350 loot. He brought the money back with him and gave it to Sheriff Dalton Davis who locked him up.

Hill is 28, the son of Mrs. Celia Hill, a respected widow of the town. Her husband, the young robber's father, ran the general store here.

REISINGER SUITS FOR DAMAGES PUT ON TRIAL DOCKET

Three damage actions based on an auto accident on Oct. 22, 1936 on Route 22 were assigned for trial early in October in common pleas court Thursday.

The suits are those of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reisinger and their daughter Doris, of near Grange Hall, against Mrs. Lella M. Johnson, Williamsport.

Mr. Reisinger sued for $7,935 damages, his wife $5,120, and the daughter $1,571. In an answer and cross petition to Mr. Reisinger's suit, Mrs. Johnson asks $10,087.62 damages.

Mr. Reisinger's case was assigned for Oct. 4, his wife's Oct. 7, and the daughter's Oct. 11.

IL DUCE ORDERS HUGE CRUISER TO CHINESE WATERS

GENOA, Italy, Aug. 26.—(UP)—The 7,000-ton cruiser Raimondo Montecuccolo, carrying a crew of 700 men and officers, was ordered to sail at full steam today for Shanghai.

The Montecuccolo is equipped with catapulting devices and three planes, torpedo and mine laying facilities. She also carries eight six-inch guns, eight 3.9 inch guns, eight 37 millimeter guns and eight 13 millimeter guns.

The men aboard the Montecuccolo represented the second contingent sent to Shanghai to protect Italian interests. The first battalion of the savasas grenadiers regiment left Massawa, Italian Eritrea for Shanghai on Tuesday. The San Marco marines are looking after Italian subjects and protecting Italian interests in Shanghai at present.

Government Hears Union

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—A Japanese airplane machine gun bullet that hit the British ambassador to China today confronted the government with a situation admittedly of the most urgent gravity.

The incident was the most serious as regards British-Japanese relations of the entire Chinese-Japanese unofficial war, despite previous airplane bombings and destruction of tens of millions of dollars of British property.

Reports that the motor car in which the ambassador was driving was flying the British Union Jack, and that the attack on it was a deliberate one on a road in a country with which Japan, despite its war, still maintains "friendly" relations, added to the anxiety of officials.

DOUGAN OUSTED AS MEMBER OF PARDONS BOARD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Leland S. Dougan, Columbus, chairman of the state parole board, was removed from office today by welfare director Margaret Allman for "conduct unbecoming an officer."

The removal, recommended 10 days ago by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting an investigation of the board, was announced from Governor Davey's office and has the approval of the governor.

Dougan, a Republican, was originally appointed on Aug. 16, 1931, by Governor George White when the present four-man parole board was created. He was reappointed by Gov. White in 1933 for a four year term, which expired Aug. 16.

WALLACE HEADS DRIVE FOR NEW FARM STATUTES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today led a "farm movement" for a special session of congress this fall to enact ever-normal granary legislation.

Speed in the formulating of a new farm program is necessary, Wallace said, in order to place it into effect for next session. He said the department is "devoutly praying" for "definite action" before January.

Wallace said he considered the joint congressional resolution authorizing a cotton loan and pledging early enactment of a new farm legislation "a definite contract" between congress and President Roosevelt.

"New farm legislation could be ready for enactment by late October," Wallace said. "The speed of passage would depend entirely on the keenness of the desire."

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Japanese naval authorities at Shanghai have apologized formally for the shooting of the British ambassador to China by a Japanese warplane, the Exchange Telegraph reported tonight from Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China, was shot through the body today by a Japanese airplane machine gun bullet as he was racing toward Shanghai from Nanking for an emergency conference with British officials.

The bullet touched the spine but did not sever the spinal cord.

Surgeons, at first hopeful that his condition was not critical, became alarmed at his loss of blood and resorted to a blood transfusion.

Two United States marines volunteered as blood donors and offe was accepted.

Marine officers who went to offer their condolences to the ambassador were told that his liver had been penetrated by the machine gun blast.

As the ambassador fought for his life at the country hospital, news was received that 20 Japanese airplanes, in a terrific bombardment, destroyed the American owned Poplar dairy in the suburbs, flying the American flag, and that a Japanese warship had sunk in flames, with its crew of 91, the Chinese survey vessel Chiaojin.

A Japanese embassy spokesman expressed the ominous "hope" that foreign countries would bow to Japan's blockade of the China coast and not try to send arms to China.

Terry Hitchcock Aboard U.S.S. Marblehead, Now On West Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hitchcock, E. Union street, have received word that their son, Terry, a member of the United States navy, will leave the latter part of next week for Shanghai, China.

He is aboard the U.S.S. Marblehead, a light destroyer, that is to act as a convoy for another ship. Young Hitchcock since joining the navy has won distinction several times. He has become an expert rifleman and recently passed an examination for fireman, making the highest grade in his class. The Marblehead is stationed now on the West coast.

VILLE MAYOR EX-OFFICIAL SEEK OFFICE

Harry Margulis Contests E. E. Fraunfelder; Other Petitions Signed

SIDEWALK WORK DELAYED

Walnut Township Trustees Work on Roads

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Politics is moving along with more doing every day, petitions quietly signed being made ready for filing before the "dead line day," Friday, Sept. 3. The present mayor, Harry Margulis, will be a candidate for re-election and ex-mayor E. E. Fraunfelder will, too, be a candidate for mayor and is now circulating his petition.

Another petition for village officials is ready for the signing and contains practically, if not entirely the same officials as has served the village for the past eighteen months.

Clyde Hoover, who it has been reported was a candidate for mayor, says he will not be, and that the report is without fact. The list of eight for Harrison township trustees, is not enlarged as yet. Madison township will have a full ticket for filing with an extra trustee in the person of Ray Marburger. The board of education will remain the same for filing.

Ashville Arrested

Scott and William Seymour of Columbus were in Ashville Tuesday night and had taken "some too many." Mayor Margulis happened to come along and saw that the boys were not in "navigating" condition and turned them over to Marshal Bob Walden who placed them in the "boose" as a cooler. The mayor Wednesday morning gave them $15 and costs and because they were short the price were sent to the county jail to board it out. And here is another sermon: "If there is no such law, there should be one, permitting village and city officials to have these offenders work their fines out where the offense is committed." And another: "Gas tax funds should be used to construct and maintain sidewalks same as the streets."

Youths Help Out

William Hall and Robert Kirkpatrick are in charge of the clerical work at the Scioto Grain Co. elevator, because of the illness of Dick Rife, the regular office man there. Young Kirkpatrick hails from New Holland and has lots of experience for one of his years. We are guessing him as not only a friendly youngster, but one who can adjust himself to any condition that happens to come his way.

Contract Delayed

The East Main street sidewalks which are to be constructed yet this year, and for which bids have been taken, have not been awarded to anyone because some of the parties interested are on vacation and will not be home for about two weeks. . . . Howard and Paul Staley, Robert Courtwright, Ray Kraft and Billy Cain have been camping this week at what is known to the boys as Sark's bridge. . . . These supplies are mostly sent to the rural districts and used both for repairs and new construction work.

CRIME FIGURES FROM 67 CITIES RISE SINCE 1936

Offenses Are in Proportion To Number of Police, G-Men Report

INCREASE IS GENERAL

Hoover Analyzes Trend of Major Violations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(UP)

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has revealed a definite relation between the amount of crime and the number of police employees in cities of the United States.

The finding is particularly significant in view of the fact that increases in the number of criminal offenses were reported from 67 cities with an aggregate population of 19,003,302 during the first six months of 1937.

Director J. Edgar Hoover said an analysis, based on crime figures for 1936, showed that cities having an average of slightly more than two police per 1,000 population reported five murders for each 100,000 population, while cities having an average of approximately one officer for each 1,000 population reported slightly less than 10 murders for each 100,000 population.

The same relationship was shown in figures for robbery, aggravated assault, burglary and larceny, he said.

Increase Is General

In addition to having approximately 90 per cent more murders than the cities with two police per 100,000, the second group reported 67 per cent more robberies, 63 per cent more aggravated assaults, 44 per cent more burglaries and 47 per cent more thefts.

"While it is doubtless true that much improvement in combating crime can be expected from the increased number of law enforcement agencies undertaking intensive training school programs, it is indicated that it is also necessary in some jurisdictions to give consideration to the question of the adequacy in point of number of employees of the local police organizations," Hoover said.

Crime reports from 67 cities revealed that the number of murders and non-negligent manslaughter cases increased 46 during the first six months of 1937, compared to a total of 568 reported for the same period last year. Manslaughter by negligence increased from 352 in 1936 to 485 in 1937.

Robberies during the six-month period totaled 6,388 during 1937 and 5,524 for 1936, but these figures compared favorably with a total of 10,282 reported during the first six months of 1937.

Burglary Remains Constant

The number of burglary cases has remained fairly constant during the seven-year study period. In 1931, there were 34,029 cases, compared to 28,971 in 1936 and 32,108 this year.

Larceny thefts reached a high mark for the seven-year period during the first six months of this year with a total of 84,201 compared to 72,244 in 1936 and 75,088 in 1931.

Starting with a total of 45,328 during the first six months of 1931, automobile thefts decreased steadily until the total was 23,370 in 1936, but the number rose slightly to a total of 24,422 this year.

Hoover said that part of the increase in reported larcenies during 1937 probably was the result of more complete reporting of minor thefts by local enforcement agencies.

BRITISH ENVOY SHOT DOWN BY JAPANESE GUN

rison and consular and other officials.

His car flew a British Union Jack from its radiator as plain notification of its British status.

The trip was to be a fast one. Col. W. A. Lovat-Fraser, chief British military attaché in China, an expert driver, took the wheel and the Chinese chauffeur was given a seat in the rear. Also in the car were the ambassador's private secretary, W. C. G. Graham and E. Hall Patch, British adviser to the Chinese finance ministry, who is also a British treasury official.

The big car had roared through Wushu. A Japanese airplane swept along, high over the road. Its pilot dived the plane toward the British car and its whipping flag. There was a burst of machine gun bullets and the ambassador slumped in his seat.

Bomb Burst in Road
Just ahead of the car in the middle of the road, a great bomb burst.

Lieut. Col. Lovat-Fraser, affected himself by concussion as were Hall Patch and Graham and the chauffeur, brought the car to a safe halt. Pausing only to recover from the shock, he took the wheel again and raced for the country hospital here.

Word was telephoned ahead that the ambassador had been wounded and surgeons and nurses were waiting. The operating room was made ready and the ambassador was taken to it at once.

It was a run of 60 miles, and when he arrived he had lost much blood. It was 2:30 p. m. when the ambassador was wounded. At 6:30 surgeons at the country hospital said that he was weak from loss of blood but that they retained hope of saving him.

They said that, though the spine was touched by a bullet, the spinal cord had not been severed.

As soon as the news was received, the British navy radio flashed out a general alarm message seeking Lady Knatchbull-Hugessen. She and her two daughters are at Peitaiho, 140 miles northwest of Shanghai, near Nanking.

Navy Crew Blamed
A Chinese army spokesman asserted that the bombing plane which attacked the ambassador had been identified as a seaplane, so that presumably it had a navy crew.

Excitement spread quickly. It was realized that a serious situation had been precipitated between Japan and Britain—the highest British official in China attacked by a Japanese plane which did not even enjoy belligerent rights because there has been no declaration of war by Japan on China. The Japanese ambassador remains here in nominally "friendly" relations with the Chinese government.

There had been no such incident in China since the Boxer rebellion of 1900, then the gravity of that situation reached the world when German ambassador Von Kettler was shot and killed while on a peaceful mission in the legation quarter of Peking—then Peking, the national capital.

Today, the ambassador had awaiting him, for an emergency conference, Admiral Sir Charles Little, commander in chief of the British fleet; Brig. Gen. A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, garrison commander in chief; consular authorities and leading Britons of the community here.

They took charge at once of the gravest incident that has occurred in Shanghai yet as regards international relations.

Then, the news came that the Japanese, after two days of savage fighting, had won smashing successes all along the 20 mile front north of the city.

Barrier Guarded
International settlement authorities feared that soon demoralized Chinese soldiers, abandoning the main army, would be retreating on the settlement, rushing the long, sand bag and barbed wire barricades thrown up on the borders of the settlement and the French concession.

Urgent orders were issued that the foreign area must be kept inviolate and that the border guards must shoot to kill any armed Chinese who sought to enter it.

Any Chinese admitted, it was said, must be disarmed and taken to a concentration camp.

Armored cars and trucks plastered with armor plate, all equipped with machine guns, were sent out to patrol settlement borders.

A Japanese army spokesman said that the Japanese were driving the Chinese into prepared death traps.

"We will make every effort to prevent their falling back on the settlement," he continued. "But this is a major engagement and it will continue until the Chinese who are defying Japan are annihilated."

300,000 READY TO QUIT TRAINS IN WAGE FIGHT

Railway Labor Officials
Call Meeting to Talk
Date for Strike

increase, totalling approximately $98,000,000 annually.

The "big five" brotherhoods—trainmen, firemen, engineers, conductors, and switchmen—demanded a 20 percent increase which carriers estimated would cost them $116,000,000 a year.

More than 90 percent of the operating trainmen voting in a special strike referendum granted the negotiating committee meeting today full authority to call a walkout if their demands were not settled amicably.

The demands were rejected flatly by the carriers' late yesterday. H. A. Enoch, chairman of the Carriers' Wage Negotiating committee and chief personnel director of the Pennsylvania railroad, said the railroads were "unable to absorb any further increases in their expenses."

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers, said there was no alternative but to call a strike.

"We were empowered to carry out our negotiations through to a successful conclusion," he said. "That meant by strike if necessary."

"They turned us down flatly and now there is nothing more to be said. When a man says he is through, he is through."

Enoch held out a hope that the negotiations could be rushed later. The carriers took the stand that wage rates now are higher than those granted by the railroad labor board in 1920; earnings of employees compare favorably with outside industry; hazards of service have been removed; purchasing power of the dollar is greater than in 1920; Competition is reducing railroad revenue; increased speed of trains has automatically increased earnings of all road trainmen and engineers and a large proportion of the railroads operated at a deficit in 1936 and many are in the hands of receivers or trustees.

UNITED SPANISH VETERANS CLOSE THEIR CONVENTION

COLUMBUS, Aug. 26—(UP)—The 39th annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans ended today with the installation of Alfred J. Kennedy, of New York, new commander-in-chief, and other officers elected yesterday.

Mrs. Mary McGualey, New York, was elected president of the women's national auxiliary. Others chosen are Mrs. Maude C. Whitlock, Washington-Alaska department, senior vice president; Lou Ella Allen, Texas, junior vice president; Betty Bassett, California, chaplain, and Anna Nagle, Massachusetts, judge advocate.

The veterans passed in review late yesterday in the annual parade, which took an hour and a half to pass the reviewing stand.

OHIO GIRL KILLED IN BARNYARD AS BIG HORSE SHIES

WOOSTER, Aug. 26—(UP)—A gay gallop about the farmyard on a draft horse brought death to an eight-year-old Shreve girl here last night and sent her brother to the hospital seriously injured.

Phyllis Shane was pitched from her mount as the horse shied. She crushed her head against a stone. James Shane, 10, seated on the horse with his sister, had lashed his feet with binder twine.

Dragged by the frightened animal, he was seriously injured before his parents heard his cries. Rushing from the barn, Mr. and Mrs. James Shane rescued the lad.

PRIME MINISTER AWAITS REPORT FROM WAR ZONE

Chamberlain May Summon
Cabinet into Special
Session

Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

It was intimated that the government would take no action until it had received the reports.

Chamberlain had just returned to Scotland, after coming here for an urgent conference with Lord Halifax, who acted as foreign minister during Eden's vacation.

It was announced only last night that these key leaders had determined to protect British lives and property in Shanghai, and would persist in efforts to secure the exclusion of Shanghai from the area of hostilities.

An official communique, issued last night, before word of the Shanghai occurrence said: "The British government share the anxieties of the United States government regarding damage to the Far East generally from the present fighting, and welcome the appeal made by the American secretary of state to both sides to cease fighting."

"The ministers observe with satisfaction the close collaboration maintained with other governments, especially the American and French. They regard it as most important that such collaboration should continue."

There was some belief that Chamberlain would call a full cabinet meeting and return to the city. Britain regards attacks on ordinary British civilians as grave enough, but an attack on an ambassador, a direct envoy of the king, is a matter of greatest moment.

Foreign Secretary Eden waited at the foreign office. He had received no official reports early this afternoon. United Press dispatches from Shanghai were telephoned to him.

Some hope was expressed that Japan, impressed by the gravity of the act of its airplane crew, might at last consent—as has China—to mutual troop withdrawal from the Shanghai area.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, is said to be proud of the fact that one of his ancestors was a governor of Maryland when it was a British crown colony.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
WOLLASTON, MASS.
AUGUST 23, 1937

Editor the Herald!

As our goods left Circleville on Wednesday and we can no longer call Circleville our home, both Mrs. Toensmeier and I want to take occasion to express our gratitude and appreciation for every kindness and courtesy shown us. We rejoice in the fine memories we carry with us as a legacy. Any one could cherish with pride the memory of the wonderful community dinner. Our new home will be at Kent School for Boys—with a fine staff of teachers and 300 boys in attendance. Their rowing crew was one of two prep crews to be sent to England to compete with the crews of its famous prep schools.

It will mean a great change for us and a readjustment of our lives. We hope to be very happy and shall be happier still when Circleville friends drop in on us.

With many thanks for your courtesies,

Cordially yours,
Emil S. Toensmeier.

HOW NEW COURT NOMINEE CLIMBED; "HARD WORK," SAYS OLD HOME TOWN

Hugo Black Was Persistently "On the Job"

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 26.—Senator Hugo Lafayette Black, named to the U. S. supreme court by President Roosevelt, has climbed to the highest peak in the legal profession because of his early persistence in "hanging around" courts as a boy in his home town of Ashland, Ala., natives say. Citizens there say they knew he would climb because of intense diligence, and his determination to learn.

Finally, Hugo borrowed money from a country storekeeper in Ashland to finance his way through the University of Alabama law school.

He was graduated with an LL. B. degree in 1906, when 20 years old—having been born on Feb. 27, 1886.

"Lucky Fire"
Young Black returned to Ashland to practice. Then a lucky fire occurred. It destroyed Black's office in Ashland. Friends persuaded the young attorney then to move to Birmingham, metropolis of Alabama.

It was a fortunate move. Black worked day and night. Friends marveled at his stamina. They began to fear for his health. But Black continued to work.

Then Black was appointed recorder or police judge, of Birmingham, in 1910—three years after he had begun practicing in the city. He cleared a clogged docket, and resigned after 18 months. He next was solicitor—prosecuting attorney—of Jefferson county (Birmingham), from 1915 to 1917. He resigned in order to enter the second officers' training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Aug. 3, 1917. He was commissioned a captain, and served in the Eighty-first Artillery corps; but just as he was about to go overseas, Black was named as adjutant of the Nineteenth Artillery brigade.

Resumes Practice
The war ended, Black resumed general practice in Birmingham, in 1919.

In February, 1921, Black married Miss Josephine Foster of Birmingham. There are three children, Hugo Lafayette, Sterling

Foster and Martha Josephine—the latter being merely a year and a half old.

Then in a spectacular race, Black won the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, in 1926, which was tantamount to election. He was re-elected for a second term, in 1932, and faced a primary election for renomination in 1938.

During recent weeks, Senator Black's fight for his wages and hours bill has cost him many supporters among businessmen in Alabama. But the senator has remarked that eventually all groups would see the wisdom of the bill. Labor, of course, has been solidly behind the senator.

Attacked in Own State
Papers that had supported the senator began attacking him editorially—and hundreds of telegrams of protest were sent to him. But the senator never has wavered.

In view of the opposition, a number of men were rumored as pre-

WATER AREA GRASS LAND URGED FOR U. S.

Federal Agronomists Visit
World to Study Native Plants

SEEDS BROUGHT BACK

Eight Specific Objectives
Listed by Cardon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(UP)—The Department of Agriculture is laying the groundwork for return of millions of acres of farm lands to grasses through study of this neglected plant at home and abroad.

Agronomists have been sent to all parts of the world to study grasses in their native land. Seeds and plants of hundreds of different varieties have been brought back and are being tested in experimental farms.

"The importance of grass to the agriculture of the United States is appreciated more now than at any time in the history of the country," P. V. Cardon, pasture specialist of the department, told the Fourth International Grassland Congress at Aberystwyth, Wales, in July.

Broader Program Followed

Although the interest in pasture plants is in breeding new varieties, there is no lessening of interest in the problems of management and soil fertility, Cardon said. Rather, he said, scientists are engaged in perfecting a grass breeding technique that will integrate and clarify broad objectives in all interdependent fields of activity.

As guide-posts in the breeding program, Cardon listed eight specific objectives: More dependable supplies of viable seed, production of grasses which will help to extend the summer grazing period, grasses resistant to disease, determination of competitive values of important species, study of quick recovery values, tolerance to extreme soil conditions, palatability, and nutritive values.

Grass breeding also is expected to fill another gap—the summer period when most common grasses stop growing. Agronomists hope to find or develop pasture plants which, because they mature later or because of some other quality, are able to thrive when other grasses are dormant.

Solution Not Definite

"Varying soil and climatic conditions preclude any single solution to pasture problems in the United States," Cardon said. "Preliminary studies show that grass growing well in two or more regions may be both palatable and nutritive in one but in another may be lacking in both."

"We are laboring under no illusions as to the magnitude of the task and the difficulties that it involves. We know that grass breeding must be fortified with other organized efforts. In the United States this means that agricultural extension agents, crop improvement associations, seed certification officials, growers co-operatives and the seed trade generally must work with the grass breeder just as he worked with the cereal available they will pass through well defined and carefully protected channels into utilization over as wide an area as possible. Only by such co-ordination of effort can adequate supplies of good seed be maintained," Cardon said.

"Strip-Tease" Dancer is "Mystified" Over Clamps Put on Burlesque

Rose La Rose, Who Landed a Place on Pacific Coast, Believes Many Night Clubs Are on a Lower Plane

Rose La Rose, former Minsky beauty now appearing on the west coast following New York's ban on burlesque, is shown at home, in her act and in street attire. She contends burlesque is on a higher moral plane than the average night club entertainment.

By ROBERT J. RHODES

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 26—The moral character of the average burlesque theater is on a higher plane than that of the average night club.

And the average sensuous dancer, or strip-tease, would rather work behind footlights than under a night club spotlight.

At least, that is the opinion expressed by Rose La Rose, fiery, raven-haired strip-tease dancer whose beauty brought her a lead role in one of Minsky's New York theaters.

But when the clamp of New York's vice crusaders and the law was tightened around the burlesque theaters there, La Rose packed up, hopped a train, sped west—and landed in a top spot in a show here.

"Why," asked the tempestuous dancer, her eyes flashing wildly, "after all, just what is wrong with burlesque?" Then, without waiting for a reply, she continued with, "I've worked on the stage and in night clubs. I'll take the stage every time."

Less Annoyance
"I don't care what they say," she added. "The moral tone of burlesque is higher. At least, on the stage I can present my dances without the annoyance of having hands of drinking patrons stretched towards me. I am sure there are dancers sharing my opinion."

La Rose, reclining leisurely in her dressing room between shows, picked up a newspaper, turned to one of the stories still dealing with the recent ban and continued:

"When they slapped the ban on those theaters in New York, out of work went many capable chorus girls, ambitious musicians, industrious stagehands."

"Everyone works hard in burlesque. If anyone really wants to stage an indecent act, she can do so elsewhere—and won't have to put in the long, hard hours that burlesque demands. There are other fields in which one may turn their eyes, ah, talents."

"Burlesque, I suppose, does have its rough spots. These easily can be rounded off. Yet, the indictments returned against my profession are irritating to me. I guess there always will be those who never understand art and artists, however."

La Rose was one of several New York showgirls charged with presenting an indecent performance.

She Was Dressed

"Why," she said, "when the show was closed, I was wearing a gown. I can't see where the law figured my act indecent."

"But if New York is too good for burlesque girls, then I guess all will do as I have done—go elsewhere. I regret that I was forced from my native city. I always have liked it, so much so that not long ago I turned down a lucrative offer to appear in the Casino de Parise in Paris. That was just before the theaters were closed."

Switching from her vehement defense of burlesque, La Rose, through whose veins courses a mixture of Austrian and Italian bloods, to a discussion of her off-stage life, said:

"The off-stage life of a burlesque queen is not unusual. But there is one phase of it that is annoying."

"Once off the stage everything is all right, but it is passing the usual line of 'stage door Johnnies' that never ceases to be an annoyance."

To Many Johnnies

Her voice becoming couched in tones unusually cynical for a girl only 20, she added:

"I am young and naturally enjoy meeting people. But so many of those I meet at after-theater parties are not unlike the 'stage door Johnnie' type."

Of the lot, there must be many who are sincere, but I am afraid to permit them the chance to prove it.

"I am young. I am a dancer. It is the demand of my profession that I be as glamorous as possible. But so many men lack the realization that my glamor, or most of it, is affected."

"Slinking gowns, a bit of theatrical makeup, an extraordinary background created by lights and backdrops. Wouldn't that triumvirate, plus the girl in an exotic costume, change the girl's personality?"

"But when I leave the stage after a performance I really am myself, and want to be treated as any other girl."

"All conversation in which most of my after-dinner party acquaintances engage seems to lack depth, there seems to be a definite lack of sincerity or worthy quality in it."

"I think that sincerity is one of man's greatest attributes. Some day I hope I will come to believe that most men possess that quality of character. But now? Well, experiences, I suppose, have left me something of a cynic."

BRITAIN READY WITH DEFENSES

LONDON, Aug. 26 (UP)—Great Britain today is prepared for any "national emergency."

Plans for the mobilization of industry and the fighting services virtually are complete, vast reserves of oil fuel have been accumulated for the navy, and huge supplies of food and raw materials are in storage.

Furthermore the naval rebuilding program has been speeded up and is well advanced, while all but one of the 128 new air squadrons, formed when the rearmament drive began, is nearing full strength.

These encouraging statements have been made in London by Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for the Co-ordination of Defense, after months of silence during which the various fighting departments have been working in secret to insure that Britain shall be in a position to defend its interests in any part of the world immediately if they are threatened.

Sir Thomas also said that tests have shown that Britain's new battleships will be the best protected in the world, and he recalled that H. M. S. Hunter, which was struck by a mine off the Spanish coast recently, was not even seriously damaged.

As far as London's anti-aircraft defense went, he said, everything was 100 percent complete — except the personnel to man the guns.

Recruitment, he admitted, was something less than 50 percent of what was necessary, and he appealed for recruits to this and other units of the country's defense, saying that the government was preparing plans whereby a maximum number of government posts would be offered to ex-servicemen.

"Few people," he said, "realize the gigantic nature of the work we undertook when we decided on rearmament."

BRITAIN BUILDS 7-MAN MIDGET FIGHTING BOATS

Deadly Little Craft Carry Guns, Torpedoes and Depth Bombs

EXETER REVEALS TREND

'Barges' to be Useful for Surprise Attacks

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 26—(UP)—Speedy, deadly "baby-battleships", carrying a crew of only seven officers and men, have been developed by Great Britain to aid in maintaining her position as "mistress of the seas."

This was revealed by officers of H.M.S. Exeter, which stopped here for a few days, while en route to Vancouver, B. C.

The new type warcraft is capable of extremely high speeds, the officers said.

While considerable reluctance was shown by His Majesty's officers, when it came to discussion of technical details of the deadly little fighters, it was pointed out that the craft will maintain speeds of 45 land miles an hour.

Carry Depth Bombs

Each carries at least two torpedo tubes, and mounts several heavy-caliber machine guns. Each also is equipped to carry depth bombs to combat submarines.

The vessels originally were designed for coast defense work, but the British Admiralty, it was admitted, believes the tiny fighters are extremely seaworthy. With this in mind, it was said, a flotilla has been sent to the Mediterranean to operate with the fleet stationed off Spain.

Almost Barge Size

British officers expressed the opinion the little craft which they described as "not much larger than a commodore's barge" will be of extremely great value in making surprise torpedo attacks at night, or under cover of a smoke screen.

The "baby-battleships" are of 15-ton displacement.

Officers aboard the Exeter said six of the "baby-battleships" already are in commission and "many, many more are building."

Fears of war in the Mediterranean, around the fortress island of Malta, has resulted in plans for basing many of the tiny craft in that vicinity, the officers hinted.

BERLIN READY FOR 11TH WORLD MILK CONGRESS

BERLIN (UP)—Berlin is preparing to receive representatives from at least 25 countries for the 11th World Milk Congress, Aug. 22-28.

Delegates from the United States, Argentina and Canada are among those expected. The congress program carries a wide variety of topics, covering problems of the milk and milk products industries.

An International Milk Exposition will be conducted concurrently and in connection with the congress, in the Deutschland Hall. Sessions of the congress will be held in the Kroll opera house, meeting place of the German Reichstag.

A series of excursions to various parts of Germany have been arranged for delegates.

The countries expected to be represented at the congress are the United States, Argentina, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Germany, Estonia, Finland, France, Great Britain, Japan, Irish Free State, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Holland, Norway, Austria, Portugal, Rumania, Sweden, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary.

BETTING IN BRITAIN RISES

LONDON (UP)—Betting on race-course totalisators in Great Britain increased by about $6,500,000 in 1936. Total turnover, says the annual report of the Race-course Betting control board, was $36,839,625, an increase of 19.82 percent over the previous year. Revenue for the year was $3,444,480.

His Wife Accused

PHILIP J. Hahn, husband of the Cincinnati, O., woman accused in several poisoning deaths, turned over to police a half-emptied bottle of a violent dysenteric poison. At the same time, police investigated a fifth death among elderly acquaintances of Mrs. Anna Hahn. They said also an inquiry had disclosed that the former German school teacher had come into possession of between $50,000 and $70,000 from friends in the last eight years. Mrs. Hahn, denying all knowledge of the causes of the deaths, has been held on fugitive warrants charged with the deaths.

MINING BOOMS IN SO. AFRICA

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 26—(UP)—Civil war in Spain may bring into existence another important industry in South Africa, if certain negotiations being handled by the Union Department of Mines are successful.

Haematite ore, for which Northern Spain has hitherto been the principal source, shortly will be going forward to overseas blast furnaces, which are unable to obtain adequate supplies owing to the present blockade of Bilbao and other export centers.

Since hostilities began between the insurgents and the Spanish government, British and Continental ironmasters have been searching for new sources of supplies. Through the Imperial Institute in London, inquiries were circulated among all those countries in the commonwealth which contain potential fields. "Reference samples" supplied by the large smelting firms in the Midlands and indications the grade of ore needed were submitted to the overseas representative of the Union Mine Department at South Africa House.

The geological survey at Pretoria located vast fields of similar haematite in the Union. More than one-quarter of the imports into the United Kingdom for 1935, the last available year, was derived from Spain, namely, 1,128,949 tons out of 4,547,436 tons.

MINE AIR-CONDITIONED SUPERIOR, ARIZ. (UP)—Installation of the only underground air-conditioning system in a mine in the U. S. has been completed. Willis H. Carrier, founder of modern air-conditioning science, announced. The mine two miles north of here, belongs to the Magma Copper Company.

Squirrel Lines Nest With American Flags

MADISON, Wis. Aug. 26—(UP)—E. W. Mutchler, custodian of Forest Hill cemetery, who has been sitting up nights trying to catch the thief stealing flags off soldiers' graves, sleeps peacefully now.

So many of the flags disappeared that the remaining old ones were replaced. Then the new ones started to disappear—and Mutchler sat up nights trying to catch the small boys he believed responsible for the flags vanishing.

A hard wind storm solved the mystery. A squirrel's nest was blown out of a tree. It was lined with 21 new American flags. Mutchler climbed trees and examined other squirrel nests. All were lined with flags, old and new.

Passengers Offered Tip If Driver Is Reckless

LINCOLN, Neb. Aug. 26—(UP)—Don't cross your legs if you are riding in the front seat of an automobile with a reckless driver. That is the advice of Dr. Robert Funsten, professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Virginia. He read a paper on "Dashboard Dislocations of the Hip" at the 50th annual convention of the American Orthopaedic association here.

This type injury is a frequent result of automobile collisions and presents a serious surgical problem, he said. The front seat can be both feet on the floor, leaning well back in the seat. If he crosses his legs, he to dislocate his hip as well as fracture his knee. That makes treatment in a hospital for or ten weeks, Dr. Funsten

NEW TECHNOLOGIES

WILLIAM FIELDING OGBURN of the University of Chicago has been directing a subcommittee of the National Resources Committee in the preparation of a recently issued report on technological trends, including the social implications of new inventions. Among the findings and recommendations made was a suggestion that a board be established to keep track of 13 of the new technologies and try to work out what will be the social impacts of their development in the next 20 years. Beyond that Mr. Ogburn and his committee wisely did not try to pierce any veils. The 13 which bid fair to disturb the future are these:

- Synthetic rubber
- Automobile trailers
- Plastics
- Artificial cotton and woolen-like fibres from cellulose
- Prefabricated houses
- The mechanical cotton picker
- Air conditioning
- Gasoline produced from coal
- Facsimile transmission. This means the transmitting of photographs, drawings and printed messages by radio.)
- Steep flight airplanes
- Tray agriculture (growing plants in water containing nutrient chemicals)
- Photo-electric cells.

It is the part of wisdom to look ahead a little at what these things may do to us as well as for us. The more man trains a really observing eye on his new world the better he may learn to make his way in it. The difficulty, of course, is the unforeseen factors. But every pioneer had those to contend with. As for the known dangers, he survived who looked before he leapt.

LIFE-LONG EDUCATION

THE recognized fact that true education is never finished, but goes on as long as the mind is active, saved a generous inheritance to the beneficiary of an educational bequest. Dr. Beran Wolfe, psychiatrist and author, set up for his 15-year-old brother a trust fund to be used for his education. The question arose as to whether that fund should be terminated when the young man finished his formal schooling.

The judge, quoting Plato, Solon the lawgiver, Cardinal Newman and Webster, ruled that formal study and instruction are only part of education. "All the experiences of life," the "happenings of a social existence among one's fellows" are education. Thus the trust fund is to be payable for life.

There is sense in the judge's decision, even if it may not be what the elder brother intended when he first planned the trust fund. It is better to have the matter so

BILL HITS TAX PAYMENT DELAY

WASHINGTON — Big-shot corporation lawyers have a painful surprise in store for them in a bill that Washington's adroit Senator Homer T. Bone slipped quietly through Congress in the closing days of the recent session.

The measure consists only of 100 words, but it carries the sock of a Big Bertha. In some respects it is a far more important reform of judicial procedure than the famous substitute for the President's scuttled Supreme Court bill. It strikes a death blow at a favorite corporate practice of evading taxation by legal delays and red tape.

Certain corporations, notably railroads and utilities, are in the habit of resisting state and county taxes by obtaining injunctions in the federal courts against the collection of the public revenues assessed against them. By technicalities and other legalistic stratagems, these suits frequently are dragged out for years.

Finally, pressed for funds, the States and counties offer to compromise. This is just what the corporations are after, and they settle for a fraction of their original tax.

Bone's act puts an end to this. In effect, it says, pay first and litigate afterwards. It does this by barring the federal courts to litigants seeking relief from local taxes, except in cases where they have been paid and claim refunds.

Working softly and deftly, the canny Washingtonian maneuvered his measure through the House and Senate with practically no debate. He estimates that it will bring as much as $100,000,000 annually in additional corporation taxes to States and counties.

SHE'D BE SURPRISED

When Mrs. Roosevelt has to have her hair done, she does just as any other woman would do. She doesn't call a hairdresser, but goes to an establishment in a department store two blocks from the White House.

There she has no more privacy than the other customers. Instead of being provided with a cubicle where she could be groomed in seclusion, the First Lady is seated in a circle intine with a dozen other women.

Her attendant is a man, "Paul", who takes great pride in serving his distinguished customer. He is so short that he scarcely stands higher than Mrs. Roosevelt when she is seated.

Swathed in aprons and towels, with one helmet after another fastened on her head, Mrs. Roosevelt sits in the neighborly group, smiling and nodding, and knitting all the time. The machines make too much noise for conversation.

One day a customer took a seat in the circle and glanced around at the group. Then she remarked to a companion, "See that woman with the 'steamer' on her head? She's a dead ringer for Mrs. Roosevelt."

Mack Parrett, the realtor, unwittingly almost provided the best story of the Summer. Hurrying from his office he slipped on ice and for a few moments did one of the cleverest balancing acts that I have seen. The ice man had left a cake almost in his doorway. There goes Ward Robinson and here comes Lawrence Warner, the grain man who after a record wheat rush is able to catch a breath or two before preparing to handle a record corn crop. Passed the time of day with Howard Orr, whose appearance revived thoughts of war days, for he is wearing a mask intended to give relief from hay fever. Strange it is that our scientists have not been able to find a cure for the ailment that attacks so many persons. Learned with pleasure of improvement in the condition of Mrs. Frank Goff, who is attacked by flu.

Had Charlie Gilmore, the light

and power man, as a brief office

guest and later chatted with Ben Gordon, thereby getting both sides of the light ordinance controversy. About the ville did hear further talk of changing our city government to the commission form and one day it will be that, but probably not for several years. All forms of government have their drawbacks as most of us learn sooner or later. That a competent city manager would prove beneficial to the community is certain, but where to find him is a real problem. Conducting the affairs of a ville is as much a specialized business as operating a bank, department store or factory.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

WHEN MARI returned to Paris she had to describe the Maharaja above everyone else. "Did he look like an Indian?" Letitia Higgins asked, eyes agog. "Well, he didn't look Spanish. And he didn't look like an American Indian. And he was sweet!" Mari said. "Imagine, Letitia, he had 12 tennis courts, a movie picture auditorium right in the house, a ballroom and a dining room where 80 people could sit at one table!"

"Did he wear emeralds and a turban?" Mari laughed. "Certainly not, except at court functions. But he did give the ball for me." "And he did invite you to India?" My goodness, I read 'THE SHIEK' and I don't think you ought to go there." "Letitia, he doesn't live in a tent. And someday, when the shop belongs to me and not to my creditors, I'm going there. I'm going everywhere! Travel does something . . . it helps you not to feel alone."

Poor Letitia! Her short-sighted eyes peered out of her thick glasses at her employer and she sighed, thinking of all that some women had.

Mari had no idea of what her secretary was thinking. She hadn't much time those days to know what she was thinking herself.

She found it almost possible to be in three places at once. Miss Higgins seldom found it possible to keep up with her. Mari was at the new shop during the morning, hurrying from there to the small one to meet her customers, to direct the sewing women, and later to receive the army of representatives attending on her opening. Her evenings were reserved for Larry Holk, the publicity man.

The jewels and the magnificent crinoline cape had gone back to the houses from which they were loaned to her, having served their purpose of having been photographed on "the beautiful Madame Maribarat"—with due credit to their source.

Mari scarcely had time to glance through the mounting press notices which poured in through the offices of Larry Holk. They lay for days on her littered desk, under sketches, invoices and receipts.

She was pleasantly stunned to pick up a copy of British VOGUE and see her photograph—they'd given a whole page to it—in the white gown she'd worn to the Maharaja's ball. Almost instantly the dressmaker in her responded critically and she forgot her personal pleasure. She'd been afraid that it was too daring, too theatrical. The way that panel swept down from the center of her turban to make a panel ending

Things were beginning to get frantic then. The opening was only two weeks away. Already the sewing staff was installed in the workshop, the last of the models was in the process of making, and the usual maddening things were happening. A piece of brocade that was especially ordered was being held up. The embroiderers were alarmingly slow getting the green wools with the quilt pattern finished.

Mari was on edge, nervous, frightened a little.

A Hollywood producer wrote and asked her if she'd like a screen test. A woman she had met in London asked her to join her party leaving for Switzerland. A little girl in Birmingham, Ala., wrote and asked her if she would design a graduation dress for her. Mari threw all of them away except for the letter from the little girl in Birmingham. To her she sent a length of embroidered organdie and a sketch.

"I had to do it, Larry," she said. "It's my only link with my own country. Of all the mess of things that have been pouring in here, that's the only real sign that I have that I'm known at all at home."

"That reminds me, Mari! How about going through this batch of photographs? International News Photos wants an action picture of you."

"Oh, Lord, another one? All right . . . Letitia! Will you please bring me that batch of pictures somebody took when I was getting on the plane to leave England?"

Letitia brought them. Mari shoved them across the desk to Larry. "Take your pick."

"I'd rather you made the selection. This picture is going home, you know. Lots of people you know will see them."

Mari lifted her eyebrows, and with an unbelieving smile ran through them hastily.

She selected one of herself about to board the plane. Her face, with a radiant smile, was turned toward the camera. Her arm was raised in a gay gesture of farewell. The picture had life. It showed a stunning, smart young woman, a radiant successful young woman.

"How's that?" she asked. Larry said it would do, and pasted a strip of typewritten copy across the back. It was the usual thing: "Mari Barat, rising young couturiere, returns to Paris for opening of her new establishment after successful social season in London. Among those who entertained for her was the Maharaja of Rajsimbia who gave a ball for her at his famous house at Windsor."

"Tripe! But no one I know will see it," Mari said.

Tony Castle saw it nearly a month later. His own shadow fell across his easel. It was too late to work, too hot in the late afternoon to walk to the village. He seldom read newspapers these days, but there was the village paper where Duke, his setter, had dropped it in his effort to be of service.

Tony turned the pages idly. And there SHE was!

He clipped the badly reproduced photograph, and studying it, he saw the one thing he wanted to do, the thing that would give his work purpose. Regretting the dying light that prohibited him from starting at once, he put the clipping away in a drawer with a red ribbon he had won long ago.

and scraping," said Mike. "I'd think yer threw me over on purpose."

DIET AND HEALTH

Action of Perspiration and Use of Deterrents

by LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAVE BEEN asked whether there is any harm in perspiration deterrents. I had better answer the question first which I will by saying "No," and then explain.

There are two kinds of sweat glands in the human body. One is the short coil gland which is found in great profusion all over the body. This gland secretes the fluid perspiration alone, and may be found anywhere on the skin whether there are hairs or not, as on the palms of the hand. These are called the eccrine glands. The other kind of gland secretes not only the fluid perspiration, but also casts off some of its cells in the secretion. It is always found in association with a hair follicle. These are called the apocrine glands. They are found mostly in the arm pits, around the nipples and over the pubes.

The apocrine glands are present in great numbers in hairy animals. The small sweat gland abundantly present on the skin of man, is almost entirely absent in animals.

Not Harmful
The two kinds of glands have different functions. The small coil sweat gland acts as a heat regulator by evaporation; 87 per cent of heat loss of the body is accounted for this way. The apocrine gland has no function, it is probably an undeveloped, or degenerated milk gland.

To stop the secretion of the arm-pit glands is therefore of no consequence. Several chemicals are capable of doing this—formaldehyde, alum, oxygen bearing or oxygen releasing compounds such as the perborates, peroxides and oxy-quinolin sulfate.

Perspiration depressants and deodorants cannot be divided. Few preparations are either the one or the other. Menthol and camphor are the drugs used most often for deodorization alone.

The near specific for depressing perspiration is aluminum chloride. It works satisfactorily. It does reduce the flow of perspiration. It also affects the clothing which touches the site of application so that repeated washings rot it out.

So if you want to make your own anti-perspiration compound, the following prescription is recommended:

Aluminum chloride 16, distilled water 100. Dissolve and filter. It has the appearance of fresh dew.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
J. D.: "What is the best opinion as to the age at which hare lip and cleft palate operations are most successful?"
Answer: Dunning, in 1936, said: "The cleft in the bone in the front of the mouth should be closed in the first few weeks, if the baby is doing well. The opening, or split in the lip, should be closed two or three weeks after the bone operation, if the baby is in good condition, and the palate should be repaired during the third or fourth year."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. ## Poems That Live

"A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE"
A life on the ocean wave,
A home on the rolling deep,
Where the scattered waters rave,
And the winds their revels keep!
Like an eagle caged, I pine
On this dull unchanging shore;
Oh! give me the flashing brine,
The spray and the tempest's roar!

Once more on the deck I stand
Of my own swift-gliding craft;
Set sail! farewell fair abate,
We shoot through the sparkling foam

Like an ocean-bird set free;—
Like the ocean-bird, our home
We'll find far out on the sea.

The land is no longer in view,
The clouds have begun to frown;
But with a stout vessel and crew,
We'll say, Let the storm come down!

And the song of our hearts shall be,
While the winds and the waters rave,
A home on the rolling sea!
A life on the ocean wave!

—Epes Sargent.

Mary E. Crist Becomes Charles Walters' Bride

Dr. Troutman Reads
Ring Ceremony
In Church

A service impressive in its solemn dignity marked the twilight wedding of Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. Edward Crist, and Mr. Charles Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walters of Circleville township, Wednesday, at Trinity Lutheran church.

The altar and chancel of the church were banked with lovely potted ferns, interspersed with large baskets of peach colored gladioli. On either side of the steps to the altar were tall candelabra holding six burning white tapers, these with the altar candles furnishing all the lighting in the church.

In the half hour preceding the service, Mr. Carl Palm played a program of nuptial music on the organ, his numbers being "Oh Promise Me", and "All for You". Mrs. Avery Eichinger, of Columbus, sang two solos, "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly", and whistled "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life", accompanied at the organ by Mr. Palm. As the hour of 6:30 approached, Mr. Palm modulated into the strains of the Mendelssohn Wedding March, and the Rev. Dr. G. J. Troutman, senior pastor of the church, took his place before the altar. Mr. Walters accompanied by his best man, Mr. Robert Hessong, of Akron, came to the chancel to await the coming of his bride.

Mr. Hillard Gehres of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mr. Howard Dresbach, of Columbus, the ushers, preceded the bridesmaids down the aisle. Miss Mary Walters, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Beatrice Hosler, of Coshocton, served as bridesmaids. They were dressed in floor length aqua taffeta gowns, made with short puff sleeves, and high necks in front. The V openings at the back of the waists were tied with bows of peach velvet ribbons, and the trimmings of the dresses were of the same ribbon. They carried arm bouquets of Briarcliff roses and wore buds of the same roses in their hair. Mrs. Hillard Gehres, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was of peach taffeta with aqua velvet ribbon trimmings and the style was similar to the dresses of the bridesmaids. She carried Johanna Hill roses and wore matching rose buds in her hair.

Miss Crist's wedding gown was of exquisite white lace, fashioned on princess lines, attractive in its simplicity. It was made with high neck and long sleeves finished at the hands with points, and with the tiny puffs at the shoulder caught with white gardenias. A row of small silk-covered buttons ran from the neck to the waistline in the back, and the dress was floor length with a train in the back. She wore an English half veil shirred to a close fitting cap finished in front with a coronet of real lace and seed pearls. A few orange blossoms were on one side of the cap. She used white accessories and carried an arm bouquet of white roses. As Miss Crist joined the bride-

TODAY'S RECIPES

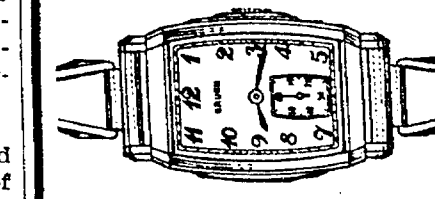

MILK TOAST.—Toast one-half inch slices of bread a good brown, and dip into thickened milk gravy. Put into a deep dish and place one slice upon another, pouring the remainder of the milk gravy over all. Serve piping hot. For the gravy use one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, two cups milk, season with salt and pepper.

POPOVERS.—Two cups flour, one tablespoon butter, one cup milk, two tablespoons baking powder, a little sugar if you like. Bake in gem pans.

MACARONI, CHEESE AND TOMATOES.—One-quarter pound cheese, one-half large can tomatoes (fresh tomatoes may be used), one-half pound macaroni, broken in pieces. Boil macaroni in rapidly boiling water until tender, then put in buttered baking dish macaroni, cheese and tomatoes in layers with oven until cheese is well melted.

used), one-half pound macaroni, broken in pieces. Boil macaroni in rapidly boiling water until tender, then put in buttered baking dish macaroni, cheese and tomatoes in layers with oven until cheese is well melted.

How to Broil
For broiling, the oven is thoroughly pre-heated. Then, with the regulator turned "high" the meat is placed on the broiler rack, far enough from the flame or element that by the time the meat is nicely browned on the top, it will be half done. This usually means a distance of about three inches. If the distance must be less, then reduce the temperature accordingly. When one side is done, season with salt and pepper, turn and allow to finish cooking on the second side.

HOW MANY HAS THE FOE?

TO THE FINE player, a suit bid usually depends upon the number of cards in the suit and the honor strength in the hand. He cares little about how much of the honor strength is in the suit he names, so long as he has it somewhere around. The vital thing, in probing for a safe trump suit, is to locate one in which the opponents will run out of trumps before the declarer's side, which usually means one in which the defenders hold a total of not more than five cards.

down one. The no trump players were down one in some instances and two in others.

The only pair who made a game contract on the deal had as the South player S. Garton Churchill of Brooklyn, who, with Charles Lochridge of New York, recently won the national men's pair championship. The bidding at his table started with 1-Heart by himself, 2-Diamonds by West, 2-No Trumps by North, 3-Spades by Mr. Churchill and 4-Spades by North.

Regardless of the opening lead, this contract could not be defeated, as the only tricks the opponents were able to take were three trump tricks.

RIGHT IN COUNTY TO TAKE PART IN STATE CONTEST

Velma Calvert and Mary Alice Puffinbarger in Style Revue

DEMONSTRATORS NAMED

Food and Livestock Teams Announced, Too

Misses Velma Calvert, Walnut township, and Mary Alice Puffinbarger, Williamsport, will represent Pickaway county in the style revue for 4-H club members at the Ohio State Fair.

The girls were selected Wednesday afternoon at a county revue held in the Farm Bureau home. Miss Calvert, a member of the Magic Sewing club, was the only entrant in the class for a complete costume made as a club project. Her outfit was a wool suit for sports and street wear with complete accessories.

Miss Puffinbarger, a member of the Live Wire Clothing club, wore a print school dress. She will enter in the class for "well dressed 4-H club girls." Misses Virginia Ater, also of Williamsport, and Dorothy Hinkle, Ashville, won second and third places in this class, respectively. There were six contestants.

Bowman Girls Win

Mary Kathryn and Helen Lois Bowman, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Bowman, Washington township, members of the Jolly Stitches club, won first place in the contest for clothing demonstration teams. They presented a demonstration on altering patterns for larger or smaller persons. Their mother is the club leader. Five clubs presented demonstrations.

Joan Downing and Adabelle May, members of the Wayne Willing Workers food club, will represent the county in a food club demonstration. Only one team participated in the county event.

Joe Vause and Frederick Barthelmas, of the Duval Go-Getters livestock club, will represent the county in that branch of the 4-H club program. They will demonstrate the treatment of pigs for worms. They formed the only team participating from the county. Judges for the local revue Wednesday were Misses Mabel Westervelt, home agent of Fairfield county, and her assistant, Velma Palsley.

Crosby May Provide $25,000 for Montague

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(UP)—John Montague, Hollywood's strong, silent man of the golf links, will be admitted to $25,000 bail on a robbery charge this afternoon, it was reported in a reliable source today.

Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brewster will deliver his decision on whether to grant bail to Montague after considering the question two days.

Montague will go on trial during the week of Oct. 11, charged with participating in a $700 holdup of a Jay, N. Y., tavern in 1930, during which an elderly man was beaten and three other persons were bound and gagged.

He was confident that if acquitted, he "could make a million dollars playing golf."

Bing Crosby, one of his closest friends, and other motion picture celebrities contend he is the "uncrowned champion" of the golf world.

Crosby To Give Bail

Crosby, expected to be present at today's hearing, will provide the $25,000 bail, it was reported.

Montague—the state claims his real name is LaVerne Moore—was cheered by one development that followed his visit to a drug store yesterday for an informal birthday celebration. He was 32, and four state troopers marched him from the jail through curious crowds to the store, where he bowed to the proprietor and ordered an ice cream soda.

A few feet away sat three of the victims of a $700 roadside robbery, in which Montague allegedly participated with three other men in 1930. They were Mrs. Kin Hanna, wife of the tavern owner, and her daughters, Nomi, 24, and Doris, 17.

District Attorney Thomas McDonald refused to say whether he had arranged the visit, but the Hannas studied Montague carefully, while pretending to be absorbed in plates of ice cream. After the prisoner had left, Nomi said:

"I don't know whether that fellow was there at the time of the robbery."

MAN JAILED FOR CHECKS IS NOT WANTED IN CITY

Charles O. Geer, under arrest in Cleveland and held for Oswego, N. Y., authorities for passing fraudulent checks, is not John W. Geer wanted here for passing a worthless check for $75.85 bearing the endorsement of Karl J. Herrmann, N. Washington street.

Mr. Herrmann and Sheriff Charles Radcliff went to Cleveland, Wednesday, to view Geer. The man wanted here, a World War veteran, falsely represented a check to be valid to obtain Mr. Herrmann's endorsement.

Returned To Cell

Montague was returned to his cell to await Justice Brewster's decision. He spent most of his time reading and sleeping, while his reputation as a "hearty eater" faded away in the face of the scanty jail fare—cereal, coffee and bread.

His plea for bail—his Hollywood friends were reported ready to advance any amount—was opposed vigorously by McDonald, who described the 1930 robbery as "the most vicious crime in my 10 years as district attorney."

Brewster already had declared that Montague could not receive special privileges simply because of his association with movie stars. It was generally believed, however, that bail would be granted.

Young Ohioans Sought For Next C.C.C. Lineup

Pickaway County young men who have been forced by lack of funds to give up their dream of attending high school or college are offered a golden opportunity to continue their education this fall in C.C.C. camps.

Several thousand Ohio young men who enroll for the six-month period beginning Oct. 1 will find both academic and vocational courses awaiting them, it was pointed out today by the C.C.C. selecting agent for this county, Delos H. Marcy, director, Pickaway County Relief Adm., 401 East Main street. Wherever possible C.C.C. camp officials will make arrangements for the enrollees to attend classes in nearby high schools or colleges. More than 200,000 C.C.C. boys have studied high school courses, more than 50,000 have studied college courses since the inception of the C.C.C. four years ago. In addition, 50,000 illiterates have been taught to read and write, 300,000 have been better grounded in grade school subjects and 1,000,000 have acquired some vocational skill.

Vocational courses include forestry, cooking, electricity, clerking, typing, elementary engineering, road building, medical and dental assistance, mechanics, use of explosives and handicraft. The courses vary somewhat with different camps.

Besides advancing his education and earning wages for himself and his dependents, the C.C.C. boy has the benefit of outdoor life, good, clothing and shelter. (The average boy usually gains 12 pounds in a six-month period.)

Local boys wishing to enroll in a C.C.C. camp should contact the county C.C.C. selecting agent at once. Applicants must be unmarried, unemployed and in need of employment, in good physical condition, citizens, and between 17 and 23 years old inclusive.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Amazing new camera tricks, developed by screen magicians for the production of the Hal Roach-M-G-M super feature comedy, "Topper," coming to the Cliftona Theatre Friday and Saturday on a double bill with Zane Grey's "Forsaken River," blaze a new trail in motion pictures.

Photographic effects reached a new importance in Hollywood in filmatizing Thorne Smith's fantastic story of the hilariously funny and thrill adventures of two lovely ghosts, as portrayed by Constance Bennett and Cary Grant.

Here are a few of the many unusual scenes in this screen play which create astounding legende-main with the celluloid: the beautiful lady ghost (Constance Bennett) at one point reaches down, grasps a zipper on her dress and zips half of herself right off the screen. When the handsome male

Traffic on busy streets is measured in millions of car-miles annually—and millions of car stops. Can you make these stops swiftly, surely, with least possible skidding?

You can if your streets are concrete. Concrete's gritty surface grips and holds tires, offers maximum traction in any weather. Its uniform riding surface gives you driving confidence—a further safety aid. And at night, concrete's light-gray, highly visible color makes your streets safer for motorist and pedestrian alike.

For economy, for good appearance—and for safety—inset on concrete.
